NEW MOONSHOOT EXPECTED SATURDAY

6 States Due To Ballot on Right-to-Work

Issue Is So Red Hot, Politicians Rate It Above All Others

WASHINGTON (AP)—A big question to be decided in the Nov. 4 elections is whether right-to-work laws are to be enacted in six more states.

The issue is a red hot one. At times it has overshadowed in interest the congressional races. Politicians are far more concerned with it than with any of the 270 constitutional amendments and referenda being voted on in 39 states.

Eighteen states, mostly in the South and West, have such laws. They provide that membership in non-union labor is a condition of employment or retention of a job.

The six states voting on the question—which has divided members of both parties—are California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Ohio and Washington. If approved by the voters, the proposals would bar employers and labor unions in those states from negotiating arrangements providing for compulsory union membership of workers.

Spokesmen for organized labor, vigorously opposed to the right-to-work laws, say they are concerned about their chances of defeating the propositions mainly in Idaho and Ohio.

Political observers also believe right-to-work advocates may have an edge in Kansas.

The issue has been particularly prominent in California. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, Republican candidate for the Senate, has some labor support because of his opposition to the right-to-work amendment. Sen. William F. Knowland, Republican candidate for governor, has drawn labor's fire with his advocacy of the amendment.

In Ohio Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill, seeking a second term, came out last week for a right-to-work amendment. His Democratic opponent, Michael V. DiSalle, previously had taken an opposite position.

In Kansas, Democratic Gov. George Docking, running for a second term, is opposed to the right-to-work amendment, but his party's platform opposes it only indirectly.

Publisher Clyde Reed Jr., Republican gubernatorial candidate, has written editorials opposing such laws, but has taken no position in the campaign. Reed and his party platform say the GOP will be guided by the mandate of the voters and that the question is not a campaign issue.

President Eisenhower has adopted a neutral attitude on the issue. He told a news conference Oct. 1 it is a matter for each state to decide. Shortly before that GOP National Chairman Meade ALCorn said he felt advocating such legislation was poor politics, tending to alienate workers.

On the Democratic side, many southerners espouse right-to-work legislation but the northern wing of the party generally opposes the idea. The Taft-Hartley Law permits the union shop except in states which outlaw it. Under the union shop, a worker need not be a member to get a job in a plant, but must join the union concerned within a certain period.

Unions claim a union shop is necessary to prevent non-members from getting union benefits without paying dues as their share of the cost. Right-to-work advocates contend compulsory union membership is immoral, infringes on individuals' rights and tends to build up union dictators.

Body of Pope Returned to Rome

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The body of Pope Pius XII, clad in funeral robes, was brought tonight to St. Peter's Basilica where it will be placed to rest Sunday or Monday.

The slow, sad procession carried the body from the Basilica of St. John Lateran, the Pope's see as bishop of Rome, where an absolution service was held.

The funeral cortege, which started from the pontiff's Castel Gandolfo Summer Palace where he died early Thursday arrived at the basilica at 3:25 p.m.

Hundreds of thousands of people were packed in the basilica and in the streets and piazza adjoining it. Throughout Italy millions more listened to or watched the solemn program on radio and television.

Other thousands had lined the 18-mile route, part of it along the Appian Way, as the procession passed by.

From the Basilica of St. John Lateran, after a ceremony of absolution, the funeral procession led to Vatican City, the tiny state of which he had been supreme ruler for 19 years. He left it on July 27 to go to his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo.

The City of Rome, its walls posted with funeral notices and festooned with half-staffed Italian and Vatican flags, was hushed, almost oppressively so. Hundreds of thousands jammed the streets of the city.

The Pope's body was clad in his most formal episcopal robes. Over a white silk cassock with a long train was drawn a long white alb, a full-length vestment reaching to the feet. Over the alb was a red and gold dalmatic, an outer vestment, and a red chasuble or sleeveless cloak. About his neck was the pallium, made of bands of lambs wool.

On his head was a tall golden mitre. There were red gloves on his hands and red slippers on his feet. Those are the robes in which he is buried, wrapped in a red silk shroud.

Beginning Saturday morning, the body will lie in state in the vast Basilica of St. Peter for the thousands of sorrowing faithful to file by in last tribute. The body will remain in state until the burial, probably Monday, in the resting place Pius chose for himself in the crypt below.

At the burial a symbolic coffin will be placed in the Basilica. It will remain the center of mourning rites which will continue through Sunday, Oct. 19—nine days of mourning, since the period officially does not begin until Saturday.

Traditionally the last three days of services are held in the smaller Sistine Chapel nearby. But the cardinals arranging the rites decided more space was needed for the crowds of mourners expected on all of the nine days.

In the crowd were most of the Pope's summer neighbors, residents of the village to which he came annually to escape Rome's heat. Outsiders swelled the crowd, and at one time more than 15,000 were packed in the palace courtyard.

There was some pushing and shouting when the papal guards began to close the gates at 10 p.m.

One woman fainted and a child suffered bruises in the crush.

"He was our pope," some in the crowd cried in protest at the closing of the gates.

Another crowd of 2,000 had gathered in the cobbled square by midnight, seeking admission.

Among those ushered into the palace was Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, who had left his homeward-bound pilgrimage at the Azores to fly back for the obsequies and the conclave that will elect a new pope.

He was led up the marble staircase by Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi Masella, who was elected Thursday by other cardinals as the church's chief executive until a new pope is chosen.

Most of the 55 living cardinals were arriving to be in Rome before the end of the official mourning and for the great election conclave which will meet as soon as possible after Oct. 24, 15 days following the death.

But several of the princes of the church are ill and others will be prevented from coming by the Iron Curtain.

Jet Fighters Tangle Anew Near Formosa

Nationalists Claim 5 Red Planes Downed At Cost of Only 1

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Jet fighters of the Chinese Nationalists and Communists battled over the Formosa Strait today. The Nationalists said five Red planes were downed at a cost of one of theirs.

The Nationalist air force said machine-gun fire from its F86 Sabre Jets shot down four MIG-17s. A Sabre Jet collided with a fifth MIG, sending both crashing into the ocean and killing the Nationalist pilot, a spokesman said.

Peiping radio claimed Communist planes shot down two Nationalist Sabre Jets and damaged a third. It said one Nationalist pilot "has been captured alive." Red losses were not mentioned.

The Nationalists now claim they have shot down 34 MIGs and damaged or possibly destroyed 11 more since the Communists began bombarding the Quemoy Islands Aug. 23. In that period the Nationalists say they have lost only the plane in today's collision.

The Defense Ministry said six Sabre Jets were patrolling south-east of Matsu, a Nationalist offshore island 150 miles north of Quemoy, when 20 MIGs jumped them. The Sabre Jets were in the area because MIGs strafed tiny Tungyin Island in the Matsu group Thursday, a spokesman said.

It was the largest aerial battle since 32 Sabre Jets clashed Sept. 24 with more than 100 MIGs. The Nationalists claimed 14 MIGs shot down in that engagement.

News of the battle climaxed the observance on Formosa of the 47th anniversary of the revolution which overthrew the Manchu Dynasty and led to establishment of the Chinese Republic. Falling on the 10th day of the month, it is known as the "Double 10th" holiday.

President Chiang Kai-shek said in his annual address that the Nationalists had won the first round of the battle of Quemoy. He predicted they would win the "second round" and eventually would recover the mainland from the Chinese Communists.

The cease-fire around the Quemoy continued into its fifth day, and the Nationalists moved more supplies into the offshore islands. Both Nationalist and Communist gunners stood ready on either side of the narrow stretch of coastal water separating them but neither fired.

There was still no clear indication whether the Communists intended to renew shelling of the Quemoy when their self-imposed cease-fire ends at midnight Sunday.

Nixon Urges Ohio Republicans To Display 'Truman Backbone'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—What the Republican party needs to win in November is backbone, says Vice President Richard M. Nixon. The vice president urged his fellow Republicans Thursday to display "some of the same backbone" Harry Truman did in winning the 1948 election in the face of adverse forecasts.

"Let us resolve from this day forward," Nixon told an enthusiastic state GOP convention, "that we Republicans are not going to be defensive, apologetic or mealy-mouthed in telling voters of this country about the magnificent record of the past and the great promise of the future if the sound progressive policies of our Republican administration in Washington are continued."

"The Republican Party goes to the country this year with a six-year record of accomplishments that is the best in history," Nixon asserted.

Answering Democratic criticism of the administration's foreign policy, he said:

"I realize they (the Democrats) say our firm position against communist aggression in the Formosa Straits runs the risk of war."

"Our reply is that despite all the criticism they have directed at our policies in the past six years, this administration has been able to accomplish an objective which they were never able to produce in the 20 years they were in Washington."

"We have peace without surrender and prosperity based on peace and not on war or as a result of a war."

Turning to the domestic scene Nixon said the election of more Democrats to Congress would mean more taxes and a cheaper dollar. He added:

"You can kiss goodbye any chance for effective labor legislation if you increase the number of those Democratic congressmen and senators who will owe their election to contributions and support of the very labor politicians they are supposed to control."

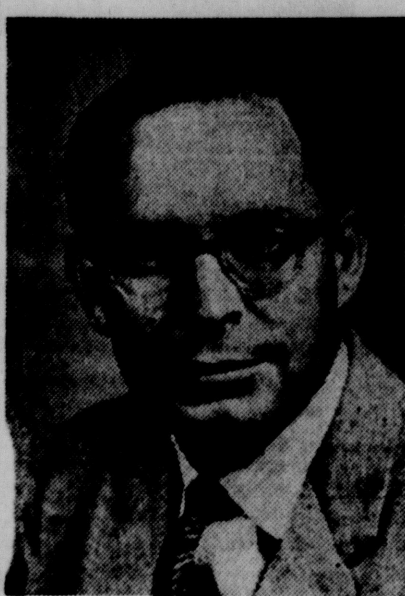

Gov. C. William O'Neill, who shared the rostrum with Nixon and U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker, also hit the theme of labor corruption. He told the convention he would not permit labor bosses to upset Ohio's favorable business climate.

"Neither Walter Reuther nor James Hoffa nor any of their lieutenants will dominate Ohio as long as I am governor," he said.

Reuther is president of the United Auto Workers and Hoffa is head of the Teamsters Union.

Sen. Bricker told the convention the major issue facing the next Congress is the problem of sound financing.

During the Truman administration, Bricker said, the dollar lost 50 per cent of its value as compared with a drop of only six per cent in value since Eisenhower took Fund Officers Work Hard; Have You Given YOUR Share?

With the 1958 Pickaway County Community Fund Drive drawing to a close, collections are far short of the $28,500 goal.

To date only $18,775 has been collected. That is 65 per cent of the goal. Another $9,725 must be raised before the fund drive can be called a success.

While many have given hours and dollars to the drive, others have been lagging in both. L. D. Varble, chairman of the campaign, said today that many solicitors had not yet made calls which should have been made two weeks ago.

He said many reports are coming in to Fund headquarters that persons have not been solicited, but want to give to the Community Fund.

Varble called on all solicitors to make a last-minute effort to make every call possible, so that the drive can be terminated before the start of the Pumpkin Show next Wednesday.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A powerful Jupiter rocket was blown apart in a blazing display of missile fireworks over Cape Canaveral Thursday night.

It was the third ballistic weapon in a row to explode shortly after liftoff in the past month.

The Jupiter — the usually reliable 1,500-mile missile which also will provide the big punch for the Army's moon rocket—was deliberately destroyed after it swerved violently out of control several thousand feet high.

One huge chunk crashed back on the cape with a roar; other debris splashed into the ocean nearby. No one was injured and there was no property damage reported.

Salvage crews searched for broken pieces of the 60-foot rocket to help Army missilemen determine the trouble.

The Jupiter thundered aloft from billows of white flame and smoke, but appeared to sway slightly as it climbed toward space. After 32 seconds it was blown up by the range safety officer.

As of today here are the totals collected in each of the five campaign divisions and the goal of each:
Special groups, $3,287 ($4,700); Industry $10,839 ($12,400); Business $4,649 ($5,400);

An Editorial

We know next to nothing about what is in a man's heart. We can only judge by his actions. Does he fold under pressure? Is he active in civic affairs? Is he polite? Does he smile frequently? Does he help his neighbors?

These are all only indications of what a man really thinks and feels. But, they are the best criteria we have in judging a person. Persons interested in the spiritual side of life certainly would support the Pickaway County Community Fund. The five agencies of the Fund are welfare organizations, committed to "doing good."

However, from a strict business point of view, are the agencies worth what they cost?

Let's check the figures. First, the Fund goal this year is $28,500, less than last year's goal of $28,700. That's an asset to begin with.

Next, if your valuable time is used in five fund solicitations a year, it is reasonable to feel that one solicitation is much more expensive.

Administrative costs of five separate drives certainly would be more than the cost of one large drive. Another reason for the Community Fund.

Lastly, what if you had to perform the services rendered by the agencies yourself? Could you organize the blood collection system provided by the Red Cross, if you needed blood for an ill son or daughter? Could you take care of indigent persons stranded here through misfortune, as the Salvation Army does? Could you rent space and provide a chaperone for the Youth Canteen? Could you give your youngsters the wholesome, heart-warming activity of the Boy and Girl Scouts?

If you can do all these things yourself, then you don't need the Community Fund.

Most of us need it. We have to support it because we can't afford not to.

So, regardless of what is in your heart, we must all support the Pickaway County Community Fund.

Bell, Ohio Cities Seek Compromise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Bell Telephone Co. representatives met with officials from a group of cities today to try to work out a compromise on the 28-million-dollar annual rate increase Ohio Bell is asking.

The meeting in the office of Ferd Pickens, Columbus utilities commissioner and chairman of the city officials group, was closed to the press.

The Ohio Bell case will be argued before the State Utilities Commission starting next Tuesday, but the company and cities are trying to compromise before then.

Lunar Probe Hinted Due Before Dawn

2 1/2-Day Trip Needed For U.S. Satellite To Reach Destination

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Columbus Day, the 466th anniversary of the discovery of America, may find American scientists probing toward a new world in space.

Although there has been no official announcement, the Air Force reportedly is ready to make another try at hurling an unmanned space satellite to the vicinity of the moon — possibly before dawn Saturday.

Thus, if all goes well, man's first device to explore the moon area would be well on its way on Columbus Day, Sunday.

This is so because a rocket flight to the moon—some 221,000 miles away at this particular time—would take a little over 2 1/2 days.

The first moon probe attempt by the Air Force failed Aug. 17. The rocket exploded after 77 seconds of flight.

The four days starting Saturday are the best in October for trying a moon shot. During this period the moon is closest to the earth. The shot will be fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

There is no plan actually to strike the moon with the 85-pound lunar probe mounted in the nose of an 88-foot, three-stage rocket.

Included in the payload are 23 pounds of instruments—notably a television-type scanning device designed to get rough pictures of the side of the moon never before seen from the earth. Other instruments are intended for counting meteorites and for determining whether the moon has a magnetic field. And the probe is equipped with radio transmitters for sending information back to earth.

Lunar probe rocketeers have cautioned that complete success would hinge on perfect functioning of some 300,000 parts of the payload and its launching rocket.

The rocket would have to reach speeds up to 24,000 miles an hour to escape the earth's gravitational pull. In this connection, the rocketeers say the venture would be considered a partial success if the rocket was able to break away from the earth's gravity.

Driver Injured When 3 Trucks Crash on 56

One driver was injured in a freak three-truck accident at 9:05 a. m. today on Route 56 near the Pickaway-Hadison County line.

Injured was a Carl Dudeson, Route 1, Williamsport. He was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, Washington, C. H., for chest and possible head injuries.

According to Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, a tractor-trailer assembly driven east by Billy Lytle, Zanesville, jackknifed on a curve. The trailer of the vehicle smashed head-on into Dudeson's west-bound truck.

Deputy Radcliff said a spring from the tractor-trailer outfit crashed into a third truck, causing it to go out of control and into a ditch.

DUDLESON was thrown from his truck and pinned underneath when the vehicle rolled over.

Radcliff said Lytle and Dudeson's trucks were heavily damaged. The third vehicle involved was slightly damaged.

The deputy said Lytle would be cited for driving left of center.

O'Neill Plans Reply To DiSalle Charge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill says Michael V. DiSalle's statement that O'Neill received material assistance in the 1956 election campaign from William Presser is merely a repeat of charges that DiSalle has made before.

Presser, president of Ohio Conference of Teamsters, recently refused to answer questions concerning his union activities in an appearance before the Senate Rackets Committee.

O'Neill, who faces Democrat DiSalle in the November gubernatorial election, said Thursday he will reply to his opponent's charges "at the proper time."

THE PICKAWAY County Community Fund is the sole support locally of five agencies which operate here in the county—The Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army and Youth Canteen.

Without the funds raised in the annual drive, the agencies would have to either stop operations completely, or else curtail them to a great extent.

Many busy executives and civic leaders have spent hours planning and executing the campaign. However, their effort is only as good as that expended by the solicitors, Varble stated.

Fund officers have called on all Pickaway County residents to "give till it feels good." They are asking just one day's pay as the average gift from every Pickaway County resident.

As of today here are the totals collected in each of the five campaign divisions and the goal of each:

We know next to nothing about what is in a man's heart. We can only judge by his actions. Does he fold under pressure? Is he active in civic affairs? Is he polite? Does he smile frequently? Does he help his neighbors?

These are all only indications of what a man really thinks and feels. But, they are the best criteria we have in judging a person. Persons interested in the spiritual side of life certainly would support the Pickaway County Community Fund. The five agencies of the Fund are welfare organizations, committed to "doing good."

However, from a strict business point of view, are the agencies worth what they cost? Let's check the figures. First, the Fund goal this year is $28,500, less than last year's goal of $28,700. That's an asset to begin with.

Next, if your valuable time is used in five fund solicitations a year, it is reasonable to feel that one solicitation is much more inexpensive.

Administrative costs of five separate drives certainly would be more than the cost of one large drive. Another reason for the Community Fund.

Lastly, what if you had to perform the services rendered by the agencies yourself? Could you organize the blood collection system provided by the Red Cross, if you needed blood for an ill son or daughter? Could you take care of indigent persons stranded here through misfortune, as the Salvation Army does? Could you rent space and provide a chaperone for the Youth Canteen? Could you give your youngsters the wholesome, heart-warming activity of the Boy and Girl Scouts?

If you can do all these things yourself, then you don't need the Community Fund. Most of us need it. We have to support it because we can't afford not to.

So, regardless of what is in your heart, we must all support the Pickaway County Community Fund.

Big Jupiter Rocket Blown Up in Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A powerful Jupiter rocket was blown apart in a blazing display of missile fireworks over Cape Canaveral Thursday night.

It was the third ballistic weapon in a row to explode shortly after liftoff in the past month.

The Jupiter — the usually reliable 1,500-mile missile which also will provide the big punch for the Army's moon rocket — was deliberately destroyed after it swerved violently out of control several thousand feet high.

One huge chunk crashed back on the cape with a roar; other debris splashed into the ocean nearby. No one was injured and there was no property damage reported.

Salvage crews searched for broken pieces of the 60-foot rocket to help Army missilemen determine the trouble.

The Jupiter thundered aloft from billows of white flame and smoke, but appeared to sway slightly as it climbed toward space. After 32 seconds it was blown up by the range safety officer.

Lunar Probe Hinted Due Before Dawn

2 1/2-Day Trip Needed For U.S. Satellite To Reach Destination

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Columbus Day, the 466th anniversary of the discovery of America, may find American scientists probing toward a new world in space.

Although there has been no official announcement, the Air Force reportedly is ready to make another try at hurling an unmanned space satellite to the vicinity of the moon — possibly before dawn Saturday.

Thus, if all goes well, man's first device to explore the moon area would be well on its way on Columbus Day, Sunday.

This is so because a rocket flight to the moon—some 221,000 miles away at this particular time—would take a little over 2 1/2 days.

The first moon probe attempt by the Air Force failed Aug. 17. The rocket exploded after 77 seconds of flight.

The four days starting Saturday are the best in October for trying a moon shot. During this period the moon is closest to the earth. The shot will be fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

There is no plan actually to strike the moon with the 85-pound lunar probe mounted in the nose of an 88-foot, three-stage rocket.

Included in the payload are 23 pounds of instruments—notably a television-type scanning device designed to get rough pictures of the side of the moon never before seen from the earth. Other instruments are intended for counting meteorites and for determining whether the moon has a magnetic field. And the probe is equipped with radio transmitters for sending information back to earth.

Lunar probe rocketeers have cautioned that complete success would hinge on perfect functioning of some 300,000 parts of the payload and its launching rocket.

The rocket would have to reach speeds up to 24,000 miles an hour to escape the earth's gravitational pull. In this connection, the rocketeers say the venture would be considered a partial success if the rocket was able to break away from the earth's gravity.

Driver Injured When 3 Trucks Crash on 56

One driver was injured in a freak three-truck accident at 9:05 a. m. today on Route 56 near the Pickaway-Madison County line.

Injured was a Carl Duddleson, Route 1, Williamsport. He was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital, Washington, C. H., for chest and possible head injuries.

According to Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, a tractor-trailer assembly driven east by Billy Lytle, Zanesville, jackknifed on a curve. The trailer of the vehicle smashed headon into Duddleson's west-bound truck.

Deputy Radcliff said a spring from the tractor-trailer outfit crashed into a third truck, causing it to go out of control and into a ditch.

Duddleson was thrown from his truck and pinned underneath when the vehicle rolled over.

Radcliff said Lytle and Duddleson's trucks were heavily damaged. The third vehicle involved was slightly damaged.

The deputy said Lytle would be cited for driving left of center.

O'Neill Plans Reply To DiSalle Charge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. C. William O'Neill says Michael V. DiSalle's statement that O'Neill received material assistance in the 1956 election campaign from William Presser is merely a repeat of charges that DiSalle has made before.

Presser, president of Ohio Conference of Teamsters, recently refused to answer questions concerning his union activities in an appearance before the Senate Rackets Committee.

O'Neill, who faces Democrat DiSalle in the November gubernatorial election, said Thursday he will reply to his opponent's charges "at the proper time."

Judge Ammer Stresses Free Court Need

In his talk before the Circleville Teachers Assn. Judge William Ammer yesterday stressed the necessity and importance of an independent judiciary. He also enumerated the various kinds of cases coming before the Court of Common Pleas and pointed out the effect of the decisions of an independent court upon the lives of the taxpayers.

He outlined briefly the origin of the three branches of government and cited instances of injustice and violation of civil liberties. Judge Ammer believes that the weakness of the foreign situation is due to the fact that the world judiciary is not independent in such situations.

Concerning segregation and Amish cases Judge Ammer said the basis for the Supreme Court's decision was the violation of the 14th amendment. Criticism of this decision is based upon social and psychological reasons rather than on legal analysis.

In concluding his talk on "Courts" Judge Ammer stated that a free judiciary is essential to the continued liberty of our people and our liberty is essential for the liberty of peoples everywhere.

Drivers Sentenced In Common Pleas

Gaylord E. Dean, 26, Circleville, and Milton Howsman, 413 E. Ohio St., accused of driving under the influence of intoxicants, entered pleas of guilty today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Both men were indicted by the September grand jury and pleaded in court at arraignment. Dean was arrested by city police on May 25.

He was given the usual sentence of three days in the county jail, fined $100 and costs and lost his driving rights for six months. Partial restoration of driver's license was allowed for business purposes.

Howsman was facing a court for the fourth time on OMVI charges. He was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $300 and costs.

His jail sentence and fine were suspended. He was ordered to serve three days in confinement and pay the court costs and was placed on probation for one year.

Ohioans' Bad Checks Not Florida Sentences

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Ronald Tompkins, 24, and his brother, Donald, 22, both of Akron, Ohio, were sentenced to two years each in state prison Thursday after they pleaded guilty to bad check charges. The pair admitted passing bad checks totaling thousands of dollars in Georgia, Tennessee, Ohio and Florida.

Radioactive Waste Use Gets Study

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—A new approach to the formidable problem of disposing of radioactive wastes has been started at the Atomic Energy Commission's eastern Idaho testing station west of here.

To illustrate the problem, Dr. Richard F. Post of the University of California's Radiation Laboratory once said that if all present power were supplied by nuclear fission reactors, "we would have to dispose each year of an amount of radioactive fission products equal to that from the explosion of 200,000 atomic bombs."

That makes current fall-out problems from the few nuclear bombs exploded each year seem trivial. The new method takes the liquid (water is often used to cool or moderate the reactor) radioactive waste and dries it in a flash by spraying it across hot granular beds.

The waste left is a solid occupying a great deal less space than when it was in the liquid. Scientists of the Phillips Petroleum Co. and Argonne National Laboratory who developed the process estimate it will reduce the volume of waste to about a seventh its previous bulk.

The solidified waste can then be stored in a much smaller space than required to store the liquid in tanks.

Varble said that although the campaign is to end tomorrow, with a final report meeting set for 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Varble residence, he expects every solicitor to make his allotted calls, even though the time limit is near.

The Pickaway County Community Fund conducts one fund-raising drive for five agencies with minor administrative costs involved.

If it were not for the one large annual fund drive, countians would be asked for funds five more times per year and the amount they would give would be eaten away with administrative costs, Varble declared.

Only 4 per cent of the $28,500 goal goes for conducting the campaign. That is compared to costs as high as 11 per cent in some fund drives and as high as 30 per cent when individual agencies conduct campaigns.

Rest of Life To Be Spent In 1 Position

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — By a week from today 32-year-old Harry Blitz must decide whether he wants to spend the rest of his life standing or sitting.

Blitz shocked the seventh annual Kansas Governor's Safety Conference Thursday with the story of how an automobile accident wrecked his life.

It was the evening of Nov. 23, 1957, when his small foreign car crashed into a stalled truck west of Wichita as he was driving to his home at Colwich.

He lay unconscious in a Wichita hospital for 20 days. He suffered severe head and face lacerations, loss of his left eye and loss of sense of smell and taste. His right leg was fractured in 63 places. He suffered a nervous breakdown.

Blitz lost his job as a salesman and went on relief to feed and clothe his wife and nine children. He had been averaging about $9,000 a year before the accident.

An operation is scheduled at a Wichita hospital next week and Blitz hopes it will make it possible for him to resume work.

Blitz spends much of his time in traction to relieve painful muscle pressure on nerves in his legs and pelvis. Doctors think they can stop the pain by fusing his body in a sitting or standing position. Blitz must decide which he prefers.

Clinton School Chides U.S. Aid Offer

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—An Anderson County School Board member has accused White House officials of proffering pennies instead of dollars to help the board repair dynamited Clinton High School.

R. G. Crossno urged another trip to Washington, this time to see no one less than President Eisenhower. His assistants, he said, gave county officials a "run-around, heave-ho, pass-the-buck."

The criticism of federal attitudes typified the board's stand since the school was integrated under federal court orders in 1956: The board will obey the law, but the federal government must accept the responsibility for what happens.

Crossno recommended to fellow board members at an emergency session Thursday night that they return to Washington and talk with the President.

Crossno led a delegation of four county officials to Washington Wednesday. They conferred with presidential aides and came away with the promise of limited federal aid for the restoration of the building. The promise came from U. S. Education Commissioner Lawrence Dertick.

Crossno said, "They are offering us pennies. What we need is dollars. What we can expect from their proposals is chicken feed. It looks like we'll need at least $300, said."

"Integration of our schools by court order has caused the building to be blown up, and it is the responsibility of the federal government."

Two Local Men Are Placed on 3-Year Probation

Harold William Heise, S. Scioto St., and James Roy Brown, 904 S. Scioto St., were placed on three years probation today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Heise and Brown changed their pleas of innocent to guilty of grand larceny charges. They were accused of the theft of a radio from an automobile which had been impounded in the Sheriff's lot on W. Main St.

The two men were indicted by the September term of the grand jury.

The first known white man to visit South Bend, Ind., (where the University of Notre Dame is located) was Father James Marquette in 1675.

Insanity Plea Fails, Man Sent to OSP

David L. Wright, 30, Adena, who previously had pleaded guilty to a forgery charge, was sentenced to the Ohio State Penitentiary for one to 20 years today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Wright, indicted by the September grand jury, was not sentenced at the September 30 arraignment due to further investigation of his mental condition.

Wright, recently paroled from the Federal Reformatory, Terre Haute, Ind., stated while there he had undergone surgery for a brain tumor.

Judge William Ammer contacted the Lima State Hospital where Wright had spent time under observation, and inquired as to his mental state. Hospital officials informed Judge Ammer that Wright was sane and a prison sentence could be imposed if warranted without injury.

Wright was accused of issuing and cashing a forged check on the Ashville Banking Co. in the amount of $56.

19 Air Force Persons Die In Plane Crash

PAYETTE, Idaho (AP)—An Air Force transport, apparently trying a wheels-down emergency landing crashed and burned with 19 servicemen aboard Thursday night. All were killed.

A team of Air Force investigators began a probe today amid speculation the twin-engine C123 may have run into a flock of geese.

Witnesses said the plane appeared to be gliding in for a landing just before it smashed nose first into a brush-covered hillside on a ranch near this southwest Idaho community.

"There were three lights blinking and the wheels were down," said irrigation worker Norman Meadows. "It looked like he was going to try and make a landing."

Officials from Idaho's Mountain Home Air Force Base said the 19 aboard were all Air Force personnel. They said the plane was en route to McChord Field, Tacoma, Wash., from its home Pope Air Force Base, N.C.

Identity of the victims was withheld. Sheriff Ray Stephens said some witnesses told him they saw a flock of geese in the area at the time of the crash.

Fire from the wreckage burned some five acres of brush.

A tenant on the Nelson ranch, Claude Smith, said his wife shouted as he was doing his evening milking that a plane had crashed.

"We went right over there but couldn't get up close enough to give any help," he said. "We found a piece of torn newspaper. It was dated today, from Oklahoma City."

Judge Ammer Stresses Free Court Need

In his talk before the Circleville Teachers Assn. Judge William Ammer yesterday stressed the necessity and importance of an independent judiciary. He also enumerated the various kinds of cases coming before the Court of Common Pleas and pointed out the effect of the decisions of an independent court upon the lives of the taxpayers.

He outlined briefly the origin of the three branches of government and cited instances of injustice and violation of civil liberties. Judge Ammer believes that the weakness of the foreign situation is due to the fact that the world judiciary is not independent in such situations.

Concerning segregation and Amish cases Judge Ammer said the basis for the Supreme Court's decision was the violation of the 14th amendment. Criticism of this decision is based upon social and psychological reasons rather than on legal analysis.

In concluding his talk on "Courts" Judge Ammer stated that a free judiciary is essential to the continued liberty of our people and our liberty is essential for the liberty of peoples everywhere.

Drivers Sentenced In Common Pleas

Gaylord E. Dean, 26, Circleville, and Milton Howsman, 413 E. Ohio St., accused of driving under the influence of intoxicants, entered pleas of guilty today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Both men were indicted by the September grand jury and pleaded innocent at arraignment. Dean was arrested by city police on May 25.

He was given the usual sentence of three days in the county jail, fined $100 and costs and lost his driving rights for six months. Partial restoration of driver's license was allowed for business purposes.

Howsman was facing a court for the fourth time on OMVI charges. He was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $500 and costs.

His jail sentence and fine were suspended. He was ordered to serve three days in confinement and pay the court costs and was placed on probation for one year.

Ohioans' Bad Checks Net Florida Sentences

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Ronald Tompkins, 24, and his brother, Donald, 22, both of Akron, Ohio, were sentenced to two years each in state prison Thursday after they pleaded guilty to bad check charges. The pair admitted passing bad checks totaling thousands of dollars in Georgia, Tennessee, Ohio and Florida.

The undersea voyager was recently purchased and brought to San Diego Harbor. With Adm. Grenfell is Dr. Andreas B. Rechnitzer of the Navy research unit which has charge of the underwater operations.

Radioactive Waste Use Gets Study

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—A new approach to the formidable problem of disposing of radioactive wastes has been started at the Atomic Energy Commission's eastern Idaho testing station west of here.

To illustrate the problem, Dr. Richard F. Post of the University of California's Radiation Laboratory once said that if all present power were supplied by nuclear fission reactors, "we would have to dispose each year of an amount of radioactive fission products equal to that from the explosion of 200,000 atomic bombs."

That makes current fall-out problems from the few nuclear bombs exploded each year seem trivial.

The new method takes the liquid (water is often used to cool or moderate the reactor) radioactive waste and dries it in a flash by spraying it across hot granular beds.

The waste left is a solid occupying a great deal less space than when it was in the liquid. Scientists of the Phillips Petroleum Co. and Argonne National Laboratory who developed the process estimate it will reduce the volume of waste to about a seventh its previous bulk.

The solidified waste can then be stored in a much smaller space than required to store the liquid in tanks.

Well, This Speech Could Needle

ROBBINSVILLE, N.C. AP — Mrs. J. Z. Watkins of Charlotte, president of the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers, on her way to a district PTA conference here, hurriedly grabbed her portable typewriter to write her speech here. On arrival, she found she'd brought her portable sewing machine instead.

U.S., Britain Pushing Envoy Level Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain are sticking to their idea that special ambassadors — not their foreign ministers — should seek to negotiate an agreement banning nuclear weapons tests.

The two governments have drafted a note to Moscow turning down a Soviet proposal that foreign ministers of the three powers meet at Geneva Oct. 31 for that purpose.

Diplomatic informants indicated, however, that the Western powers would leave the way open for a possible meeting of foreign ministers to ratify such an agreement if and when it has been worked out by East-West negotiators at a lower level.

Some diplomats said that in drafting the note the Washington and London governments sought to give a "yes but" reply to the Soviet Union's unexpected call for a conference of foreign ministers. Their purpose, it was said, was to avoid being placed in a completely negative position — a position which the Soviet government might use as an excuse for scuttling the projected Geneva meeting entirely.

The three powers had agreed earlier that they would meet at Geneva Oct. 31 to negotiate on the political problems of a test suspension agreement.

Several Soviet maneuvers in recent weeks have led high officials here and in London to fear that the Soviet government may be pulling back from a workable test suspension plan.

Fund . . .

ness, $3,085 ($3,800); Residential $660 ($2,600); and County $903 ($5,000).

Varble said that although the campaign is to end tomorrow, with a final report meeting set for 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Varble residence, he expects every solicitor to make his allotted calls, even though the time limit is near.

The Pickaway County Community Fund conducts one fund-raising drive for five agencies with minor administrative costs involved. If it were not for the one large annual fund drive, counties would be asked for funds five more times per year and the amount they would give would be eaten away with administrative costs, Varble declared.

Only 4 per cent of the $28,500 goal goes for conducting the campaign. That is compared to costs as high as 11 per cent in some fund drives and as high as 30 per cent when individual agencies conduct campaigns.

Rest of Life To Be Spent In 1 Position

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — By a week from today 32-year-old Harry Blitz must decide whether he wants to spend the rest of his life standing or sitting.

Blitz shocked the seventh annual Kansas Governor's Safety Conference Thursday with the story of how an automobile accident wrecked his life.

It was the evening of Nov. 23, 1957, when his small foreign car crashed into a stalled truck west of Wichita as he was driving to his home at Colwich.

He lay unconscious in a Wichita hospital for 20 days. He suffered severe head and face lacerations, loss of his left eye and loss of sense of smell and taste. His right leg was fractured in 63 places. He suffered a nervous breakdown.

Blitz lost his job as a salesman and went on relief to feed and clothe his wife and nine children. He had been averaging about $9,000 a year before the accident.

An operation is scheduled at a Wichita hospital next week and Blitz hopes it will make it possible for him to resume work.

Blitz spends much of his time in traction to relieve painful muscle pressure on nerves in his legs and pelvis. Doctors think they can stop the pain by fusing his body in a sitting or standing position. Blitz must decide which he prefers.

Clinton School Chides U.S. Aid Offer

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—An Anderson County School Board member has accused White House officials of proffering pennies instead of dollars to help the board repair dynamited Clinton High School.

R. G. Crossno urged another trip to Washington, this time to see no one less than President Eisenhower. His assistants, he said, gave county officials a "run-around, heave-ho, pass-the-buck."

The criticism of federal attitudes typified the board's stand since the school was integrated under federal court orders in 1956. The board will obey the law, but the federal government must accept the responsibility for what happens.

Crossno recommended to fellow board members at an emergency session Thursday night that they return to Washington and talk with the President.

Crossno said, "They are offering us pennies. What we need is dollars. What we can expect from their proposals is chicken feed. It looks like we'll need at least $300,000."

"Integration of our schools by court order has caused the building to be blown up, and it is the responsibility of the federal government."

Two Local Men Are Placed on 3-Year Probation

Harold William Heise, S. Scioto St., and James Roy Brown, 904 S. Scioto St., were placed on three years probation today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Heise and Brown changed their pleas of innocent to guilty of grand larceny charges. They were accused of the theft of a radio from an automobile which had been impounded in the Sheriff's lot on W. Main St.

The two men were indicted by the September term of the grand jury.

The first known white man to visit South Bend, Ind., (where the University of Notre Dame is located) was Father James Marquette in 1675.

Insanity Plea Fails, Man Sent to OSP

David L. Wright, 30, Adena, who previously had pleaded guilty to a forgery charge, was sentenced to the Ohio State Penitentiary for one to 20 years today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Wright, indicted by the September grand jury, was not sentenced at the September 30 arraignment due to further investigation of his mental condition.

Wright, recently paroled from the Federal Reformatory, Terre Haute, Ind., stated while there he had undergone surgery for a brain tumor.

Judge William Ammer contacted the Lima State Hospital where Wright had spent time under observation, and inquired as to his mental state. Hospital officials informed Judge Ammer that Wright was sane and a prison sentence could be imposed if warranted without injury.

Wright was accused of issuing and cashing a forged check on the Ashville Banking Co. in the amount of $56.

19 Air Force Persons Die In Plane Crash

PAYETTE, Idaho (AP)—An Air Force transport, apparently trying a wheels-down emergency landing crashed and burned with 19 servicemen aboard Thursday night. All were killed.

A team of Air Force investigators began a probe today amid speculation the twin-engine C123 may have run into a flock of geese.

Witnesses said the plane appeared to be gliding in for a landing just before it smashed nose first into a brush-covered hillside on a ranch near this southwest Idaho community.

"There were three lights blinking and the wheels were down," said irrigation worker Norman Meadows. "It looked like he was going to try and make a landing."

Officials from Idaho's Mountain Home Air Force Base said the 19 aboard were all Air Force personnel. They said the plane was en route to McChord Field, Tacoma, Wash., from its home Pope Air Force Base, N.C.

Identity of the victims was withheld.

Sheriff Ray Stephens said some witnesses told him they saw a flock of geese in the area at the time of the crash.

Fire from the wreckage burned some five acres of brush.

A tenant on the Nelson ranch, Claude Smith, said his wife shouted as he was doing his evening milking that a plane had crashed.

"We went right over there but couldn't get up close enough to give any help," he said. "We found a piece of torn newspaper. It was dated today, from Oklahoma City."

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My mother-in-law says she can't stand her husband any more. She is a constant complainer (by pay phone); I've never known anyone who felt more self-pity. She depends on her husband for everything; he runs to wait on her and helps with all the housework. I do for myself, and they've never offered to help me, not even in time of need, as when my mother died.

I've never known of anyone visiting them; they don't seem to want any company. Both worked until age 65; and now she is 66 and he 68. She is still beautiful looking. Their retirement income for two is $245 a month; and they pay $55 monthly rent at present.

I try very hard to love her, but in the past she has said terrible things to me, out of a clear sky. (I think she drinks a little). Both she and her husband are very bossy, and I would love to live apart from them.

If they force an answer out of me, as regards buying a house, how can I tell them, in a nice acceptable way, that I choose to live alone with my husband and children?

DEAR B.Y.: It is an old and true saying that no house is big enough for two women.

Each will have her own ideas of how things should be done—how rooms should be furnished, meals prepared and served, children trained, hospitality handled, etc. Which is perfectly natural, since housekeeping and homemaking are woman's speciality; and women are individualists in trying to develop and express their taste.

Thus I congratulate you on your sound foresight, in trying to find the right answer in time to head off trouble. Now, about a message for your parents-in-law, in case they force a statement from you about the housing idea: Tell them it would be too much of a strain for all of you; that childhood and age won't mix, as a daily grind. This is a fact.

An elderly pair, who have each other for companionship, is a lot better off in its own groove, even if lonely, than if inescapably tied to the nervous wear-and-tear of a household operation built around child-rearing. Their live-in presence in that situation is a hardship experience for all involved—taxing to the children, their parents, and the oldest as well. It should never be mistaken for a desirable arrangement. And again I commend you for guarding against it, when it isn't strictly necessary.

Kingpins of Films Started Humbly

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What manner of men are the 12 famous stars who are now the kingpins of the movie world?

The majority come from the heartland of America. They were born in such places as Winterset, Iowa (John Wayne), O'Fallon, Ill. (William Holden) and Indiana, Pa. (James Stewart). Only two came from a metropolis: New Yorkers Burt Lancaster and Tony Curtis.

Just one was a foreigner: Cary Grant, born Archibald Leach in Bristol, England.

Most of them came from humble beginnings. Gregory Peck's and Wayne's fathers were druggists, Curtis' was a barber, Frank Sinatra's a boxer and Clark Gable's an oil field worker.

All the stars came up the hard way. Before they clicked as actors, Lancaster was an acrobat, Grant a stillwalker, Gable a lumberjack and Kirk Douglas a bellhop.

So you think that America worships youth? Then it may surprise you to learn that the average age of the dozen most successful film stars is 47.

Only Marlon Brando (34) and Curtis (33) are under 40. Three of the dozen are over 50: Grant (54), Gable and Gary Cooper (both 57).

What about their physical characteristics? Handsomeness in men is a matter of divided opinion. But I would hazard that of the 12, only Curtis might be classed as a pretty boy. The others have good looks with rugged rather than classical features.

They run rather slim and rangy. Sinatra, Brando and Curtis are 5 feet 10, but all of the others are 6 feet or over. Top man is Wayne at 6 feet 4 and a solid 210 pounds. Most of the others manage to keep in the 160- to 180-pound bracket through rigorous exercise and diet.

They are not necessarily the most honored actors in films. Only half of them have won Academy Awards.

Their records would seem to belie the claim that Hollywood is a shaky place for marriage. Half of the golden dozen have been married only once.

They are all pros. They average almost 19 years of experience in films, and most of them had some experience on the stage before coming to Hollywood. (Except: Wayne, Cooper). Cooper has the most film experience—32 years.

But beyond the statistics, what are the qualities that have made them kings of the film world? All are strong personalities with plenty of drive. Don't let Stewart's drawl and Cooper's "yup" fool you. They have worked hard to get to the top of the heap. Now they've got to work even harder. There are plenty of young stars eager to take their places.

Basically, they are thoroughly masculine types. They seldom play weak characters; when they do, the result is usually a failure. But manliness is not enough. They must also effect a communication with the audience, and they do that through the emotions.

"The main thing we do is give people an emotional experience," explains James Stewart. "If we don't get it into a picture, it's usually a flop. If we do get it, the picture has a chance of being really great."

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My mother-in-law says she can't stand her husband any more. She is a constant complainer (by pay phone); I've never known anyone who felt more self-pity. She depends on her husband for everything; he runs to wait on her and helps with all the housework. I do for myself, and they've never offered to help me, not even in time of need, as when my mother died.

I've never known of anyone visiting them; they don't seem to want any company. Both worked until age 65; and now she is 66 and he 68. She is still beautiful looking. Their retirement income for two is $245 a month; and they pay $55 monthly rent at present.

I try very hard to love her, but in the past she has said terrible things to me, out of a clear sky. (I think she drinks a little). Both she and her husband are very bossy, and I would love to live apart from them.

If they force an answer out of me, as regards buying a house, how can I tell them, in a nice acceptable way, that I choose to live alone with my husband and children?

DEAR B.Y.: It is an old and true saying that no house is big enough for two women.

Each will have her own ideas of how things should be done—how rooms should be furnished, meals prepared and served, children trained, hospitality handled, etc. Which is perfectly natural, since housekeeping and homemaking are woman's speciality; and women are individualists in trying to develop and express their taste.

Thus I congratulate you on your sound foresight, in trying to find the right answer in time to head off trouble. Now, about a message for your parents-in-law, in case they force a statement from you about the housing idea: Tell them it would be too much of a strain for all of you; that childhood and age won't mix, as a daily grind. This is a fact.

An elderly pair, who have each other for companionship, is a lot better off in its own groove, even if lonely, than if inescapably tied to the nervous wear-and-tear of a household operation built around child-rearing. Their live-in presence in that situation is a hardship experience for all involved—taxing to the children, their parents, and the oldsters as well. It should never be mistaken for a desirable arrangement. And again I commend you for guarding against it, when it isn't strictly necessary.

Need Care in Moon Probe

History is replete with instances in which man, boldly thrusting his way into unexplored territories, has spoiled their pristine characteristics. Now that he is beginning to thrust his way into outer space, will he also spoil the moon?

Presumably there is no life form on our lunar satellite, not even the once-postulated panspermic spores carried by cosmic dust. But there is priceless knowledge to be gained, and the chance of gaining it may be lost by an impetuous approach.

Such is the warning of the Committee on Contamination of Extraterrestrial Exploration of the International Council of Scientific Unions.

If a space vehicle or rocket attempted a "hard" or crash landing on the moon, says the CETEX report, it could cause extensive "contamination" of the moon surface with large molecules produced by life on earth. As a result, man might never learn whether such molecules had existed there before.

Such landings, if made at all, should be confined to limited areas, advises CETEX. "Soft" landings would be still worse. The tons of searing fuel released in braking a vehicle to a gradual stop would prevent our learning anything about the nature of the extremely thin lunar atmosphere.

If, contrary to all expectations, there is rudimentary life, that, too, would be endangered. CETEX recommends: No soft landings until completion of a survey of the moon's atmosphere through low-flying satellites.

And for goodness' sake, the report urges, don't let's shoot any nuclear bombs at the moon. Let's find out about its radioactivity, cosmic rays, etc., without confusing the picture by any alien radioactive fallout from the earth. There is no way of knowing what the communists will think of this report. They hope to get there first.

Only if free men get there first is it likely that their embassies will be plagued by red pickets bearing signs reading, "hands off the moon."

Those back from vacations with thin purses should be reminded that the shopping days before Christmas are getting fewer.

Newsman Finally Writes Book

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most effective ways for a newspaperman to lose grace among other newspapermen is to write a book.

The reason is simple. The rest of us talk all the time about writing a book. But being men of great talent, vivid imagination, and easy rationalization, we never do.

Thus, Dick Newcomb of The Associated Press has dismayed his old friends. He not only talked about writing a book; he actually wrote one. To make matters worse, he wrote a good book, and it was published. It is now a best-seller. How unfriendly can you get?

His book is "Abandon Ship," a taut chronicle of the sinking of the cruiser Indianapolis late in World War II.

What makes Dick's defection even more painful is that all along he had the excuses the rest of us had for not writing a book. Such as: "Too tired at the end of a working day." And: "My family demands too much of my time." And, best of all: "I got no place to write."

Dick had no place to write, but he cleared and laid claim to the starboard side of the basement of his home in Haworth, N.J. His wife Alice was told that henceforth she would be confined to the port side, the side with the oil burner, the washing machine, and surplus family junk.

"It worked out fine," Dick says, "except in the winter when she violated our territorial agreement. She hung wet clothes to dry over my desk."

His desk was a sheet of plywood stretched over two sawhorses. His filing cabinets were grocery cartons and the cinder-block basement wall where he soon spread out with huge charts of the Pacific and blueprints of the Indianapolis. The book took 2½ years for research and writing.

"Apparently," he says, "I was fated to finish it. Every spring I thought I'd have a grand excuse not to finish it. Every other the basement used to leak. But in the time I worked on the book it stayed dry until two weeks after I finished the final draft."

How does a man who spends eight hours a day working, two hours a day commuting, and supposedly the rest of his time appeasing a wife, two high school daughters and a house in need of repair—how does such a man write a book?

"It's easy," Dick insists. "You work nights. First you have dinner. Then you do your daughter's geometry. Then you get your wife well situated with the evening paper, a TV program, and a tall drink. Then you disappear into the basement until, hours later, a voice yells down from the master bedroom 'Hey, Zola, it's midnight!'"

Now that the book is written and selling, Dick has other problems to cope with. Most people have inflated ideas of best sellers.

The author of a best seller has a hard time convincing others that the east wing of Ft. Knox is not involved.

"The children," Dick says, "are convinced they're going to get their own cars, and my wife is convinced we're getting a new house, and I'm still worried about making payments on the old car and the old house."

"Relatives think I'm hoarding my fortune. Friends think I'm greedy for not retiring and giving my job to someone who needs the money. And every time I buy a new hedge clipper or rake, a neighbor says: 'You're smart, Dicky boy. Live it up while you can!'"

Who Exploited Whom?

That terrible word, exploitation, is on many lips these days. The British, the French, the Dutch, even in a measure, the Americans, have engaged in awful exploitation. But the Russians apparently never exploited anyone but each other and only the peoples who have unfortunately become enslaved to them, which brings down on them no opprobrium.

I see in the "Winchester (Va.) Evening Star" an item about one Jamal A. Sa'd who travels about the United States telling of the wonders of Nasser, the Arab. Says Sa'd concerning colonialism:

"... this philosophy calls for the exploitation of the national wealth of the colonized territory, through transfer of raw materials to the home country to promote local industries—the process ending in floating the goods and commodities of the colonial power back where the raw materials came from in the first place."

Well, let's look at the record: For millennia, the oil which is bringing wealth and perhaps some day an improved standard of life to the Middle East, lay under the sands of the deserts. Some of it seeped to the surface and was used for trifling purposes, but nothing was done about it by these peoples who today regard themselves as important and progressive.

It was principally the British and later the Americans who went into Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and other Arabian countries, poured millions of dollars into exploration and development, set up machinery and pumps and pipe-lines and in due course brought to the governments of those countries vast revenues from this oil.

It is not the foreigner who exploited these peoples. If anybody did any exploiting, it was the governments which accepted their share of the proceeds and spent it on riotous living of ruling individuals.

I, myself, witnessed what foreign investments did in a country like China. Take as an example, the area on the Yangtze River known as Wuhan, which included the cities of Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang.

Hankow was a highly developed foreign-controlled metropolis, with paved streets, schools, churches, public institutions, factories, mills, warehouses, enormous business activity in which more Chinese engaged than foreigners and in which Chinese individuals made more money than foreigners did. Wuchang was an ancient capital city, dirty, fly-ridden, with narrow streets of foul odor. Hanyang was an ugly place where was situated a steel plant.

Those who liked the picturesque rather than the wholesome might have preferred Chapei, the Chinese area, to the International Settlement of Shanghai, but where foreign capital came, a rising standard of living also came.

One of the most serious problems that faced China for several centuries was the surplus population in the villages and on the land. The only practical solution was for the surplus men to become bandits and the surplus girls to become prostitutes and slave girls. And that is what happened, the bandits always being a serious problem until they were absorbed in the army.

By surplus population is meant more people than a given area can feed. The bandit groups of Manchuria, Shantung, Kuangtung, Kuangsi and Yunnan became serious political problems because too large a share of the national income had to be spent either suppressing or supporting them. Often when they were absorbed into the Chinese army, their leaders became war-lords and fought for additional territory and revenue.

But when a cigarette factory or a cotton mill, by whomsoever owned, came into such an area, the surplus population disappeared because the industry absorbed that surplus either directly or in related supply or service industries. There was no exploitation in this but vast benefits to the ordinary people because many of them for the first time in their lives participated in a money economy. They got wages for their work and with some companies they got such fringe benefits as they hardly knew existed in this world.

True, these benefits whetted their appetites for more money and more benefits which in time led to various forms of discontent and to strikes. This is undoubtedly a normal human reaction to a rising standard of life. But even such strikes did not indicate exploitation; they rather gave assurance that the capitalist system was functioning beneficially for these people. It stirred them to desire more consumers' goods.

Why did not the Chinese, who had plenty of capital, initiate industrial activities which absorbed surplus populations? Why did not the Hindus or the Arabs do what the Europeans did?

Coal Mining Most Dangerous

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.
Is your job dangerous? What are the chances of your being injured while at work?

Even though coal mining injuries have been reduced 64 per cent in the past eight years, this is still the most dangerous occupation, according to the statistics published recently in "Patterns of Disease." The percentage of mining injuries which result in death remains higher than for any other industry.

Fortunately, most industrial accidents involve only temporary disability. There were 48.24 injuries per 1,000,000 man hours worked in coal mining operations in 1956. Lumber and wood products work (excluding furniture making) was the next most dangerous occupation with 38.9 injuries per 1,000,000 man hours.

Next comes construction, 31.2; trucking and warehousing, 30.2; mining and quarrying other than coal, 27.9; ship and boat building, 19.8.

Food processing is close behind, 19.0; then furniture and fixtures, 17.7; the wholesale and retail trade, 12.5; hotels, 11.9.

Private transit ranks next, 11.7, and railroad equipment follows, 10.0. The injuries incurred in the manufacture of railroad equipment carry the greatest danger of permanent disability.

New Lebanon Premier Quits Under Fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Rising opposition from supporters of former President Camille Chamoun reportedly has forced the resignation of Premier Rashid Karami after only 14 days in office.

President Fuad Chehab was reported considering appointing a military government. Chehab headed the army until he became president in September.

Karami, a 37-year-old Sunni Moslem, was a leader of the armed rebellion last summer against Chamoun. After Karami became premier, the Christian Phalange, a militant party supporting Chamoun, launched strikes and barricades. Wednesday it became apparent Karami could not win a confidence vote in Parliament because of opposition from Chamoun supporters.

Although Karami told newsmen he has not quit, highly reliable sources said his resignation is in Chehab's hands but that the president has not yet acted on it.

In Washington, the State Department announced the approximately 7,000 U. S. troops still in Lebanon will all be pulled out by Oct. 31 "in view of the progress made toward stable international conditions."

Tension sharpened acutely in Beirut Wednesday night, when between 100 and 200 Phalangists were reported kidnapped. Pedestrians and automobiles quickly disappeared from the streets.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Baleful signs for Gamal Abdel Nasser are beginning to appear on the troubled horizon of the Middle East, but American officials are taking no comfort from them.

Nasser and his flirtation with Moscow have been the bane of U.S. policy makers for years. The thorn has been particularly irksome because they had such high hopes for him when he overthrew the corrupt and decadent Egyptian government of King Farouk in 1952.

His power reached a peak last Feb. 1 when Egypt and Syria merged into the United Arab Republic. At last he had taken a giant step toward his goal of uniting all the Arab countries.

But Nasser may now be having second thoughts, not only about the wisdom of taking over Syria, but also about leading pan-Arabism as well.

Nasser is confronted with a disenchanted and restive Syria within his own camp and a strong new Arab force outside it.

The best available intelligence estimate here on the Middle East is an apprehensive one. In the opinion of one highly qualified expert, almost anything could happen anywhere—perhaps before the month is out.

Nasser is faced in Iraq with the rise of Abdul Kassem, leader of the July 14 revolt which threw out the pro-West government of King Faisal and Premier Nuri Said. Premier Kassem is no pan-Arab like Nasser, but an Iraqi nationalist. Nasser cannot dispose of Kassem as an American stooge or a tool of Britain.

Kassem demonstrated his independence and growing power last weekend by smashing a revolt led by troops following Col. Abdul Aref, his chief rival. Aref, a strong supporter of Nasser, has been agitating for Iraq's annexation to the U.A.R.

Schools in Ypsilanti, Mich., conducted a campaign to get pupils to eat celery, carrots or apples to build good teeth.

Iraq and Syria, lying together in the Fertile Crescent, are far closer culturally than are Egypt and Syria. Reports are that some in Syria, unhappy over playing second fiddle in the U.A.R., would like to break away and join up with Iraq.

Nasser may have been reacting to such sentiment when he reorganized his Cabinet two days ago. Of the 21 members, 15 are Egyptians and 6 Syrians.

According to some advances, Syria might better have federated, instead of merging. That way each would have preserved more national identity, and less responsibility would weigh on him.

One result of Nasser's difficulties in his new role might be to arrest his ambition to get all Arab states under his power. But there could be a far more ominous result.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia is reported ailing while intrigue rages among the princes over who should succeed him. The Sudan is shaky and Yemen is no better off, these reports say.

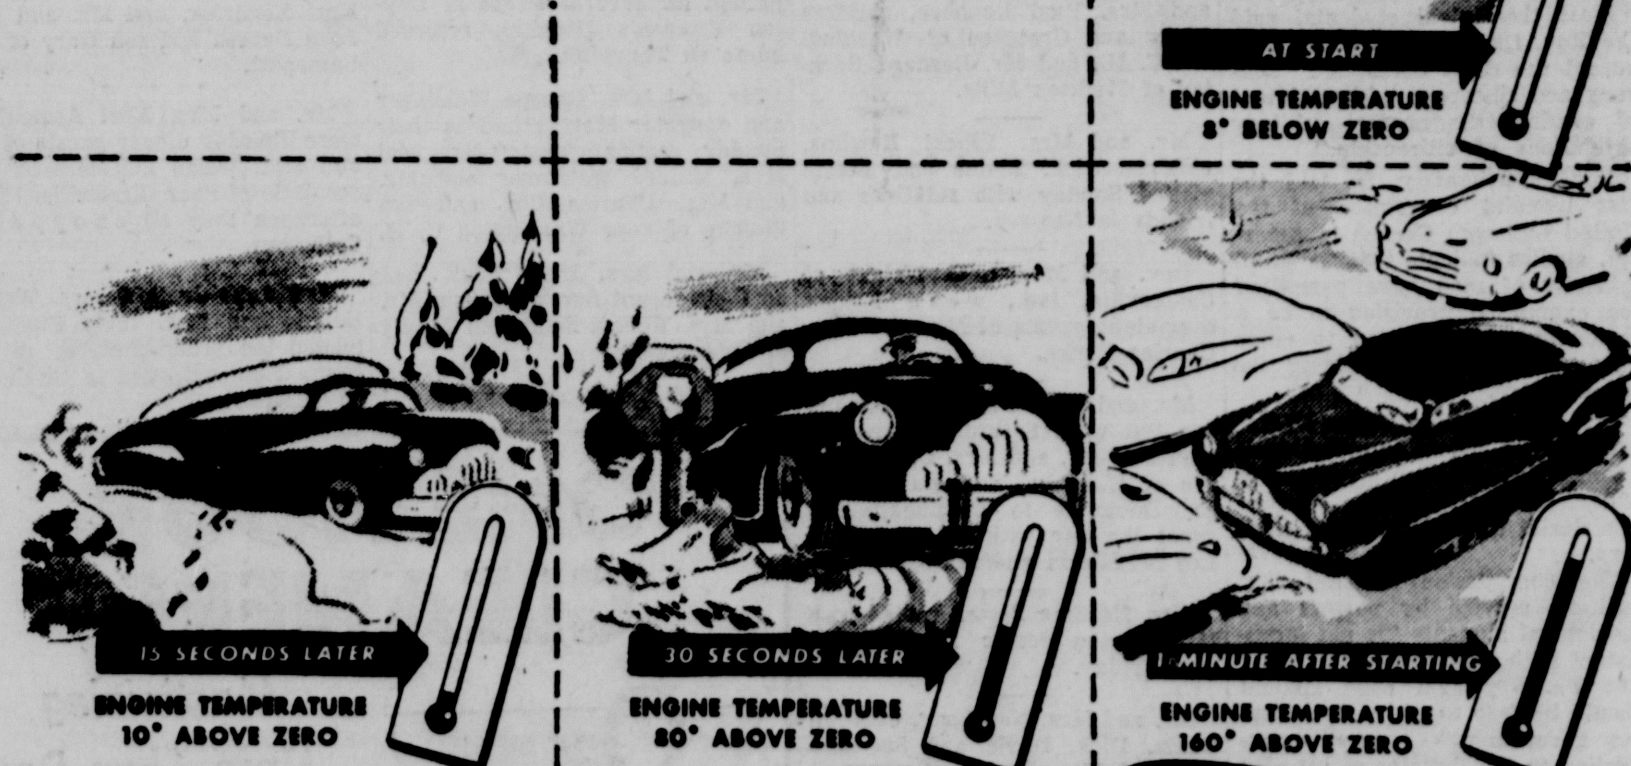

Lebanon's leaders are fighting among themselves in what could develop into a religious war, pitting Christians against Moslems in a further confounding of an already embittered situation.

A weak and confused Nasser would not be a welcome sight to Washington officials concerned about the general state of Middle East affairs. They were happiest when Nasser emerged as a leader. He seemed then to be the one man commanding general respect with whom they could get things done.

Need Care in Moon Probe

History is replete with instances in which man, boldly thrusting his way into unexplored territories, has spoiled their pristine characteristics. Now that he is beginning to thrust his way into outer space, will he also spoil the moon?

Presumably there is no life form on our lunar satellite, not even the once-postulated panspermic spores carried by cosmic dust. But there is priceless knowledge to be gained, and the chance of gaining it may be lost by an impetuous approach.

Such is the warning of the Committee on Contamination of Extraterrestrial Exploration of the International Council of Scientific Unions.

If a space vehicle or rocket attempted a "hard" or crash landing on the moon, says the CETEX report, it could cause extensive "contamination" of the moon surface with large molecules produced by life on earth. As a result, man might never learn whether such molecules had existed there before.

Such landings, if made at all, should be confined to limited areas, advises CETEX. "Soft" landings would be still worse. The tons of searing fuel released in braking a vehicle to a gradual stop would prevent our learning anything about the nature of the extremely thin lunar atmosphere.

If, contrary to all expectations, there is rudimentary life, that, too, would be endangered. CETEX recommends: No soft landings until completion of a survey of the moon's atmosphere through low-flying satellites.

And for goodness' sake, the report urges, don't let's shoot any nuclear bombs at the moon. Let's find out about its radioactivity, cosmic rays, etc., without confusing the picture by any, alien radioactive fallout from the earth. There is no way of knowing what the communists will think of this report. They hope to get there first.

Only if free men get there first is it likely that their embassies will be plagued by red pickets bearing signs reading, "hands off the moon."

Newsman Finally Writes Book

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most effective ways for a newspaperman to lose grace among other newspapermen is to write a book.

The reason is simple. The rest of us talk all the time about writing a book. But being men of great talent, vivid imagination, and easy rationalization, we never do.

Thus, Dick Newcomb of The Associated Press has dismayed his old friends. He not only talked about writing a book; he actually wrote one. To make matters worse, he wrote a good book, and it was published. It is now a best-seller. How unfriendly can you get?

His book is "Abandon Ship," a fast chronicle of the sinking of the cruiser Indianapolis late in World War II.

What makes Dick's defection even more painful is that all along he had the excuse the rest of us had for not writing a book. Such as: "Too tired at the end of a working day." And: "My family demands too much of my time." And, best of all: "I got no place to write."

Dick had no place to write, but he cleared and laid claim to the starboard side of the basement of his home in Haworth, N.J. His wife Alice was told that henceforth she would be confined to the port side, the side with the oil burner, the washing machine, and surplus family junk.

"It worked out fine," Dick says, "except in the winter when she violated our territorial agreement. She hung wet clothes to dry over my desk."

His desk was a sheet of plywood stretched over two sawhorses. His filing cabinets were grocery cartons and the cinder-block basement wall where he soon spread out with huge charts of the Pacific and blueprints of the Indianapolis.

The book took 2½ years for research and writing. "Apparently," he says, "I was fated to finish it. Every spring I thought I'd have a grand excuse not to finish it. Every other the basement used to leak. But in the time I worked on the book it stayed dry until two weeks after I finished the final draft."

How does a man who spends eight hours a day working, two hours a day commuting, and supposedly the rest of his time appeasing a wife, two high school daughters and a house in need of repair—how does such a man write a book?

"It's easy," Dick insists. "You work nights. First you have dinner. Then you do your daughter's geometry. Then you get your wife well situated with the evening paper, a TV program, and a tall drink. Then you disappear into the basement until, hours later, a voice yells down from the master bedroom 'Hey, Zola, it's midnight!'"

Now that the book is written and selling, Dick has other problems to cope with. Most people have inflated ideas of best sellers. The author of a best seller has a hard time convincing others that the east wing of Ft. Knox is not involved.

"The children," Dick says, "are convinced they're going to get their own cars, and my wife is convinced we're getting a new house, and I'm still worried about making payments on the old car and the old house."

"Relatives think I'm hoarding my fortune. Friends think I'm greedy for not retiring and giving my job to someone who needs the money. And every time I buy a new hedge clipper or rake, a neighbor says: 'You're smart, Dicky boy. Live it up while you can!'"

Who Exploited Whom?

By George Sokolsky

That terrible word, exploitation, is on many lips these days. The British, the French, the Dutch, even in a measure, the Americans, have engaged in awful exploitation. But the Russians apparently never exploited anyone but each other and only the peoples who have unfortunately become enslaved to them, which brings down on them no opprobrium.

I see in the "Winchester (Va.) Evening Star" an item about one Jamal A. Sa'd who travels about the United States telling of the wonders of Nasser, the Arab. Says Sa'd concerning colonialism:

"... this philosophy calls for the exploitation of the national wealth of the colonized territory, through transfer of raw materials to the home country to promote local industries—the process ending in floating the goods and commodities of the colonial power back where the raw materials came from in the first place."

Well, let's look at the record: For millennia, the oil which is bringing wealth and perhaps some day an improved standard of life to the Middle East, lay under the sands of the deserts. Some of it seeped to the surface and was used for trifling purposes, but nothing was done about it by these peoples who today regard themselves as important and progressive.

It was principally the British and later the Americans who went into Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and other Arabian countries, poured millions of dollars into exploration and development, set up machinery and pumps and pipelines and in due course brought to the governments of those countries vast revenues from this oil.

It is not the foreigner who exploited these peoples. If anybody did any exploiting, it was the governments which accepted their share of the proceeds and spent it on riotous living of ruling individuals.

I, myself, witnessed what foreign investments did in a country like China. Take a, an example, the area on the Yangtze River known as Wuhan, which included the cities of Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang.

Hankow was a highly developed foreign-controlled metropolis, with paved streets, schools, churches, public institutions, factories, mills, warehouses, enormous business activity in which more Chinese engaged than foreigners and in which Chinese individuals made more money than foreigners did. Wuchang was an ancient capital city, dirty, fly-ridden, with narrow streets of foul odor. Hanyang was an ugly place where was situated a steel plant.

Those who liked the picturesque rather than the wholesome might have preferred Chapel, the Chinese area, to the International Settlement of Shanghai, but where foreign capital came, a rising standard of living also came.

One of the most serious problems that faced China for several centuries was the surplus population in the villages and on the land. The only practical solution was for the surplus men to become bandits and the surplus girls to become prostitutes and slave girls. And that is what happened, the bandits always being a serious problem until they were absorbed in the army.

By surplus population is meant more people than a given area can feed. The bandit groups of Manchuria, Shantung, Kuangtung, Kuangsi and Yunnan became serious political problems because too large a share of the national income had to be spent either suppressing or supporting them. Often when they were absorbed into the Chinese army, their leaders became war-lords and fought for additional territory and revenue.

But when a cigarette factory or a cotton mill, by whomsoever owned, came into such an area, the surplus population disappeared because the industry absorbed that surplus either directly or in related supply or service industries. There was no exploitation in this but vast benefits to the ordinary people because many of them for the first time in their lives participated in a money economy. They got wages for their work and with some companies they got such fringe benefits as they hardly knew existed in this world. True, these benefits whetted their appetites for more money and more benefits which in time led to various forms of discontent and to strikes. This is undoubtedly a normal human reaction to a rising standard of life. But even such strikes did not indicate exploitation; they rather gave assurance that the capitalist system was functioning beneficially for these people. It stirred them to desire more consumers' goods.

Why did not the Chinese, who had plenty of capital, initiate industrial activities which absorbed surplus populations? Why did not the Hindus or the Arabs do what the Europeans did?

Nearly Forgotten on Ballot: Constitutional Amendment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Important though it is, Amendment No. 1 to the state constitution is the all-but-forgotten issue on Nov. 4 election ballots.

The metropolitan federation proposal is overshadowed by controversy surrounding the issue on regulating labor union contracts, known as Amendment No. 2.

But Issue No. 1 is important to large cities and surrounding areas seeking how to solve such problems as sewer, water and various utility services; garbage and refuse collection; police and fire protection; health, parks and recreation programs.

Approval of the proposal, placed on ballots by the Legislature, would permit formation of federations within each of 12 counties. Each has a city of more than 50,000 population. Adoption of federation charters would be voted on later.

Sponsors said the proposal is designed for federation of cities and townships within a county although the operation could include the county also.

Ohio voters previously approved a change in the constitution permitting adoption of home rule charters with municipal powers in an entire county of more than 50,000 population.

Cuyahoga and Lucas counties will vote next month on election of commissions to draft such county wide charters.

The new constitutional amendment to be voted on statewide next month could apply to Cleveland and Toledo as well as 10 other cities with populations of more than 50,000 and possibly a half dozen more.

The other cities are Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield, Hamilton, Lima, Columbus, Akron, Youngstown, Canton and Lorain. Three other cities, lacking the required population under the 1950 census, now exceed that total. They are Mansfield, Warren and Zanesville. Population gains indicate that Portsmouth, Newark and Steubenville might qualify after the 1960 count.

Gov. C. William O'Neill said in endorsing Amendment No. 1:

"It is designed to enable the people of local communities to decide if they want to unite in a governmental federation to solve their local service problems.

"The proposed amendment does not bind the people of any community to any course of action. It would, however, enable them to take voluntary action within their county to meet local problems."

Approval of the amendment would set the stage for voters within a county to decide whether they want a federation. City council of the most populous city or county commissioners could take the first step by a two-thirds vote. Residents of the affected area also could do so by petition.

Such action would provide for election of a federation charter committee by voters in the area. After a charter was drafted, area voters then would say whether it should be adopted. Such a charter would have to win approval in the major city, in the area outside the city and in the entire area to be governed under the charter.

Charters could provide for concurrent or exclusive powers in all or parts of the area, depending on these provisions.

Any municipality or township in the same county touching the federation area could join later through petition, subject to approval of voters and the federation's legislative authority as constituted under the charter.

Opponents of the proposal assert it provides for an additional governmental body to handle functions that can be dealt with under present laws.

Metal Trades Hint Good Times Ahead

Demand on Upswing Smelters Hear Few Gripes on Price Hike

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Solid evidence that better times are returning is offered today by the metal trades.

Producers of steel, copper, aluminum, lead and zinc, all say demand is on the upswing. This has enabled all of them to raise prices since June. Lead, zinc and copper have gone up again just this week and producers and smelters say customers haven't balked at the higher costs.

Steel, copper and aluminum producers are stepping up output, lengthening work weeks or reactivating idle facilities to meet the new demand.

Lead and zinc producers are happily disposing of some of the big stocks of these metals above ground.

Domestic producers have been helped some by outside circumstances as well as by improving demand here.

Lead and zinc producers have got a big assist from the imposition Oct. 1 by the United States of import quotas on the metals.

Steel output is now back to 71 per cent of capacity, the highest rate since last November. At the bottom of the recession it had slipped below 50 per cent.

Steelmen say orders are coming in at a satisfactory pace. And they look for even more as soon as the last of the local auto strikes are cleared up. They say auto makers have been frugal in their buying of metals, but full scale production of 1959 models should make them more liberal in coming weeks.

Increasing construction outlays have been a big help to the metals trade. Public projects have taken up the slack caused by a dip in factory building.

Appliance makers and farm equipment makers are also better customers of the metals industry now.

Zinc producers report that both galvanizers and die casters are taking more of the metal. The lead producers are counting on more auto production to call for more batteries.

Increasing demand for aluminum by several industries has led both the Aluminum Co. of America and Reynolds Metals to step up output.

Metals have a long road to travel yet to be back to last year's level. But all of today's news is good because the metal industries are so basic to the American economy. If consumers continue to increase their spending as expected, the news will get still better.

Nearly Forgotten on Ballot: Constitutional Amendment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Important though it is, Amendment No. 1 to the state constitution is the all-but-forgotten issue on Nov. 4 election ballots.

The metropolitan federation proposal is overshadowed by controversy surrounding the issue on regulating labor union contracts, known as Amendment No. 2.

But Issue No. 1 is important to large cities and surrounding areas seeking how to solve such problems as sewer, water and various utility services; garbage and refuse collection; police and fire protection; health, parks and recreation programs.

Approval of the proposal, placed on ballots by the Legislature, would permit formation of federations within each of 12 counties. Each has a city of more than 50,000 population. Adoption of federation charters would be voted on later.

Sponsors said the proposal is designed for federation of cities and townships within a county although the operation could include the county also.

Ohio voters previously approved a change in the constitution permitting adoption of home rule charters with municipal powers in an entire county of more than 500,000 population.

Cuyahoga and Lucas counties will vote next month on election of commissions to draft such county wide charters.

The new constitutional amendment to be voted on statewide next month could apply to Cleveland and Toledo as well as 19 other cities with populations of more than 50,000 and possibly a half dozen more.

The other cities are Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield, Hamilton, Lima, Columbus, Akron, Youngstown, Canton and Lorain. Three other cities, lacking the required population under the 1950 census, now exceed that total. They are Mansfield, Warren and Zanesville. Population gains indicate that Portsmouth, Newark and Steubenville might qualify after the 1960 count.

Gov. C. William O'Neill said in endorsing Amendment No. 1: "It is designed to enable the people of local communities to decide if they want to unite in a government federation to solve their local service problems.

"The proposed amendment does not bind the people of any community to any course of action. It would, however, enable them to take voluntary action within their county to meet local problems."

Approval of the amendment would set the stage for voters within a county to decide whether they want a federation. City council of the most populous city or county commissioners could take the first step by a two-thirds vote. Residents of the affected area also could do so by petition.

Such action would provide for election of a federation charter committee by voters in the area. After a charter was drafted, area voters then would say whether it should be adopted. Such a charter would have to win approval in the major city, in the area outside the city and in the entire area to be governed under the charter.

Charters could provide for concurrent or exclusive powers in all or parts of the area, depending on these provisions.

Any municipality or township in the same county touching the federation area could join later through petition, subject to approval of voters and the federation's legislative authority as constituted under the charter.

Opponents of the proposal assert it provides for an additional governmental body to handle functions that can be dealt with under present laws.

Juvenile Delinquency Linked To Child's Reading Habits

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Mothers who wring their hands over juvenile delinquency and wonder what the younger generation is coming to might find a clue by looking into the reading habits of their offspring, says Eugene Ackerman, a retired executive who has been studying this matter of late.

"If young people read such books as 'Tom Sawyer' and 'Huckleberry Finn', 'Robinson Crusoe' and 'Gulliver's Travels', instead of the mawkish fiction that is poured out for them, they not only would have a healthier slant on life, but would discover the excitement of good reading," says Ackerman. He has just added to the current supply of juvenile adventure literature with his first book, "Jeb and the Bank Robbers," a tale of youthful blood and thunder in a little Indiana town of the 1890's.

"Please don't regard me as a canting old goat gazing with alarm. I'm pretty serious about this. When I decided to take some of the boredom out of retirement by writing a book, I began to notice the stuff that school boys and girls were reading as they sipped their cokes in the corner drug-store in our little town.

"Most of the stuff was magazines of the kind especially numerous in drugstores that cater to the school trade. The art work, drawn and photographed, I found almost entirely devoted to violence and pornography at the lowest level. I was interested and appalled as I watched boys and girls from 10 years up giggle and blush as they leafed through the magazines and munched the candy bars displayed conveniently near the magazine stand."

Ackerman's new book has something of the flavor of "Tom Sawyer" and other juvenile classics. Its heroes, Jeb and Joe, are a couple of average boys who inadvertently get involved into the hunt for a notorious gang of bank robbers, have hair-raising adventures and wind up helping to solve the mystery.

Metal Trades Hint Good Times Ahead

Demand on Upswing Smelters Hear Few Grips on Price Hike

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Solid evidence that better times are returning is offered today by the metal trades.

Producers of steel, copper, aluminum, lead and zinc, all say demand is on the upswing. This has enabled all of them to raise prices since June. Lead, zinc and copper have gone up again just this week and producers and smelters say customers haven't balked at the higher costs.

Steel, copper and aluminum producers are stepping up output, lengthening work weeks or reactivating idle facilities to meet the new demand.

Lead and zinc producers are happily disposing of some of the big stocks of these metals above ground.

Domestic producers have been helped some by outside circumstances as well as by improving demand here.

Lead and zinc producers have got a big assist from the imposition Oct. 1 by the United States of import quotas on the metals.

Steel output is now back to 71 per cent of capacity, the highest rate since last November. At the bottom of the recession it had slipped below 50 per cent.

Steelmen say orders are coming in at a satisfactory pace. And they look for even more as soon as the last of the local auto strikes are cleared up. They say auto makers have been frugal in their buying of metals, but full scale production of 1959 models should make them more liberal in coming weeks.

Increasing construction outlays have been a big help to the metals trade. Public projects have taken up the slack caused by a dip in factory building.

Appliance makers and farm equipment makers are also better customers of the metals industry now.

Zinc producers report that both galvanizers and die casters are taking more of the metal. The lead producers are counting on more auto production to call for more batteries.

Increasing demand for aluminum by several industries has led both the Aluminum Co. of America and Reynolds Metals to step up output.

Metals have a long road to travel yet to be back to last year's level. But all of today's news is good because the metal industries are so basic to the American economy. If consumers continue to increase their spending as expected, the news will get still better.

d-CON STOPPED RATS FROM EATING ME OUT OF HOUSE AND HOME!

Read What Lowell Geringer, Of Wauson, Ohio, Has To Say About d-CON:

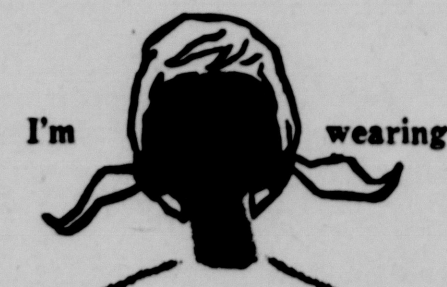

"Rats were a real problem with me. I had to get rid of them and so I turned to d-CON. I'd been using another rat-killer, but d-CON sure did the job. d-CON gets results. It really kills rats. Let me tell you, d-CON stopped rats from eating me out of house and home!"

It's a fact—in the great corn and wheat belts of America, where farmers really know how to get rid of rats, d-CON outdoes all other rat and mouse killers combined! Farmers know that d-CON is the quick, sure, easy way to rid their property of destructive, disease-bearing rats. For rats hungrily eat d-CON's exclusive LX 3-2-1 formula, never suspect it's bait, never bait-shy, devour it without guessing that every bite puts another nail in their coffin. d-CON actually makes rats commit suicide. d-CON is THERMO-SEALED—always reaches you "factory fresh." Economical, too. One package of d-CON makes several bait stations. Remember, d-CON, used as directed, is safe to use around small children, pets, poultry and livestock, yet is guaranteed to keep your property rat and mouse free forever!

d-CON STOPPED RATS FROM EATING ME OUT OF HOUSE AND HOME!

Read What Lowell Geringer, Of Wauson, Ohio, Has To Say About d-CON:

"Rats were a real problem with me. I had to get rid of them and so I turned to d-CON. I'd been using another rat-killer, but d-CON sure did the job. d-CON gets results. It really kills rats. Let me tell you d-CON stopped rats from eating me out of house and home!"

It's a fact—in the great corn and wheat belts of America, where farmers really know how to get rid of rats, d-CON outsells all other rat and mouse killers combined!

Farmers know that d-CON is the quick, sure, easy way to rid their property of destructive, disease-bearing rats. For rats hungrily eat d-CON's exclusive LX 3-2-1 formula, never suspect it's bait, never get bait-shy, devour it without guessing that every bite puts another nail in their coffin. d-CON actually makes rats commit suicide.

d-CON is THERMO-SEALED—always reaches you "factory fresh." Economical, too. One package of d-CON makes several bait stations.

Remember, d-CON, used as directed, is safe to use around small children, pets, poultry and livestock, yet is guaranteed to keep your property rat and mouse free forever!

The Promise Fulfilled

CHRIST IS BORN IN BETHLEHEM

Scripture—Luke 2:1-40.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

ST. LUKE tells in the scripture assigned to our lesson today, Luke 2:1-40, of the journey that Joseph and Mary made from their home in Nazareth to Bethlehem because of a Roman tax levied on the Jews. The lovely story of Christ's birth will be told again at Christmas time, as has been done for 15 centuries; now we will study the text of the chapter.

The word Bethlehem means "house of God," and it was five miles south of Jerusalem. Nazareth, the home of Joseph and Mary, was 90 miles north of Jerusalem. It was a fitting place for Christ to be born, for it was the birthplace of King David, and is often called the City of David.

What a vivid picture we have in our minds of the shepherds tending their flocks in the fields and hearing from an angel of God that the long-looked-for Messiah was born! These poor men did not ignore the tidings, but hurried to Bethlehem to see this wonderful Child and to worship Him.

people Israel."—Luke 2:29-32.

This song of Simeon's "has been recognized and for ages it has entered into the evening services of the Church, both the Roman Catholic and the Anglican churches," Dr. Wilbur M. Smith says in his Fellowship's Select Notes.

Simeon blessed Mary and Joseph, who were marveling at these things. He said to Mary, "Behold this Child is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel; and for a sign which shall be spoken against; (Yes, a sword shall pierce through thy own soul also) that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed."—Luke 2:34-35.

Simeon was proved a true prophet as the sword did indeed pierce through the gentle Mary's heart as she witnessed the persecutions and final cruel death of her beloved Son.

There was also in the temple that day in Jerusalem a widow of many years who never departed from the temple, "but served God with fastings and

MEMORY VERSE

"The Child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."—Luke 2:40.

A certain number of days had to elapse after the birth, according to Jewish law, before Mary could enter the temple. When the time was up, she and Joseph took the Blessed Child there to be presented to the Lord, and to offer a sacrifice of two young pigeons, as they were too poor for a more expensive offering.

Now there was in Jerusalem a just and devout man named Simeon, who waited for the "consolation of Israel." The Holy Ghost had revealed that he "should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ."—Luke 2:25, 26.

The Spirit took him into the temple just as Mary and Joseph brought the Infant Jesus in, and Simeon at once recognized that here was the promised Messiah, and he took the Babe into his arms and blessed God, saying, "Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, according to Thy word: for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation, which Thou hast prepared before the face of all people: a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of Thy prayers night and day." She "gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of Him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem."—Luke 2:36-38.

When Joseph and Mary had "performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their own city Nazareth. And the Child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."—Luke 2:39-40.

Today, while we rejoice in the thousands of scientific discoveries that help make the world a better and easier place in which to live, the sword is still piercing many mothers' and fathers' hearts all over the world as they fear their sons' lives sacrificed on battlefields. Let us pray and strive diligently to bring up our sons so that they, too, may be filled with wisdom, strong in spirit, with the "grace of God upon them," as was our Lord Jesus. Then they may bless the world and peace may finally become a reality on the earth.

Cleft Palate Injury Is Common Speech Disorder

This is the fourth in a series of articles compiled by Mrs. Walter May, speech and hearing therapist of the Teays Valley School District. This is case history No. 3—Cleft Palate Speech.

About one baby out of every 750 live births has a cleft palate, cleft lip, or both. Jeff, a pre-schooler, is receiving speech therapy because he was one of these babies.

In the developing unborn child the lip and palate, or roof of the mouth, are separate until between the ninth and the twelfth week of life, when they fuse. When this fusion fails to take place, the child has a permanent cleft, or opening. The exact reasons for this failure are not yet known.

A lip may be cleft on one or both sides the cleft may extend through the red border of the lip or up into the nose. However far it extends it is certain to be exceedingly unattractive, and it usually prevents the newborn baby from nursing normally. For this reason the cleft lip is usually closed within the first weeks by a skilled plastic surgeon or oral surgeon.

A cleft palate is not as conspicuous in the new baby, but it too may be dangerous to life and health. If the palate is completely or partly open on both sides or down the middle, or is not cleft but exceedingly short, the child will tend to lose fluids from his mouth through his nose. This happens because the special function of the palate, separation of the mouth and the floor of the nasal cavity, is prevented by the opening.

USUALLY, a cleft of the palate is not surgically repaired as early as the cleft lip. In many cases the surgeon may prefer to wait until the child is from four to six years old, in order that the principal growth of the face will be complete and will not be disturbed by the repair.

The majority of repairs are probably done now at about 18 to 30 months.

There is another alternative besides surgery which is being elected more often in recent years, although it is used much less frequently than surgery. If a lack of tissue to work with or other factors make it apparent that surgery will not get a good workable palate, a prosthodontist may make an obturator to cover the cleft. It may be something like the plate used with false teeth, or it may have a bulb in the back which actually functions as the palate would have. Occasionally both surgery and an obturator are used.

Jeff's lip was repaired when he was two-weeks old. When he was 18-months old, he was taken to a Cleft Palate Clinic at a nearby medical school. There he was examined by representatives of all the rehabilitative fields that could help him: a plastic surgeon, an oral surgeon, a pediatrician, a pediatric dentist, a prosthodontist, an orthodontist, an otolaryngologist, a speech therapist, and a medical-social worker.

After examining Jeff, the team of specialists discussed his case and then recommended a program for him which included surgical repair of the palate in six months and speech therapy. Jeff was referred back to his own surgeon for the operation. An orthodontist would then begin work to prevent the misalignment of teeth common in cleft palate children.

Although Jeff's repaired cleft palate seemed to have the ability to reach the back of his throat and close off the vocal area during speech, the boy was not getting all of this possible movement.

Jeff's therapy, which began when he was three and a half years old, has had four objectives: the strengthening of the muscles of his pharynx and of the repaired palate

The attainment of a point of closure between palate and wall of the pharynx ear-training, so that the child would be aware of a difference between the defective and normal sounds and the development of normal speech.

Because Jeff began therapy early, he never developed many of the bad habits that cleft palate children who begin therapy later must unlearn.

Jeff's speech may always be identifiable by those familiar with

Cincinnati U Planning New Space Study

CINCINNATI (AP)—The University of Cincinnati has announced plans to set up a new institute on space problems. Mathematician-astronomer, Dr. Paul Herget, will head the project.

The university, in announcing the move Thursday, said it will be called the Institute on Space Science. Its main purpose will be to give advanced training and do research work.

Dr. Herget, director of the UC Observatory, has been in charge of the Navy Vanguard computing center at Washington.

The university said Dr. Herget has gained the interest of the National Research Foundation and Navy research officials in the project.

The Navy has already allocated $54,000 for work on satellite problems at the school, which next September will offer a three-year program leading to a doctorate in dynamical astronomy.

Dr. Herget said, "The need for the institute . . . arises from the lack of persons trained to deal with orbit problems and concrete solutions based on actual observation."

"The entire vanguard project does not have a single full time person on the staff who is competent in this subject. There was no one to be found who could be employed."

cleft palate speech but he will not be a curiosity to be sheltered at home, if he lived, which would have been the case a generation or two ago.

That he will lead a normal life is the result of the efforts of many workers from varied fields of medicine, dentistry, and education.

The Promise Fulfilled

CHRIST IS BORN IN BETHLEHEM

Scripture—Luke 2:1-40.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

ST. LUKE tells in the scripture assigned to our lesson today, Luke 2:1-40, of the journey that Joseph and Mary made from their home in Nazareth to Bethlehem because of a Roman tax levied on the Jews. The lovely story of Christ's birth will be told again at Christmas time, as has been done for 15 centuries; now we will study the text of the chapter. The word Bethlehem means "house of God," and it was five miles south of Jerusalem, Nazareth, the home of Joseph and Mary, was 90 miles north of Jerusalem. It was a fitting place for Christ to be born, for it was the birthplace of King David, and is often called the City of David. What a vivid picture we have in our minds of the shepherds tending their flocks in the fields and hearing from an angel of God that the long-looked-for Messiah was born! These poor men did not ignore the tidings, but hurried to Bethlehem to see this wonderful Child and to worship Him.

MEMORY VERSE

"The Child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."—Luke 2:40.

A certain number of days had to elapse after the birth, according to Jewish law, before Mary could enter the temple. When the time was up, she and Joseph took the Blessed Child there to be presented to the Lord, and to offer a sacrifice of two young pigeons, as they were too poor for a more expensive offering.

Now there was in Jerusalem a just and devout man named Simeon, who waited for the "consolation of Israel." The Holy Ghost had revealed that he "should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ."—Luke 2:25, 26.

The Spirit took him into the temple just as Mary and Joseph brought the Infant Jesus in, and Simeon at once recognized that here was the promised Messiah, and he took the Babe into his arms and blessed God, saying, "Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, according to Thy word: for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation, which Thou hast prepared before the face of all people: a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of Thy people Israel."—Luke 2:29-32.

This song of Simeon's "has been recognized and for ages it has entered into the evening services of the Church, both the Roman Catholic and the Anglican churches," Dr. Wilbur M. Smith says in his Peloubet's Select Notes.

Simeon blessed Mary and Joseph, who were marveling at these things. He said to Mary, "Behold this Child is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel; and for a sign which shall be spoken against; (Yes, a sword shall pierce through thy own soul also) that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed."—Luke 2:34-35.

Simeon was proved a true prophet as the sword did indeed pierce through the gentle Mary's heart as she witnessed the persecutions and final cruel death of her beloved Son.

There was also in the temple that day in Jerusalem a widow of many years who never departed from the temple, "but served God with fastings and prayers night and day." She "gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of Him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem."—Luke 2:36-38.

When Joseph and Mary had "performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their own city Nazareth. And the Child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."—Luke 2:39-40.

Today, while we rejoice in the thousands of scientific discoveries that help make the world a better and easier place in which to live, the sword is still piercing many mothers' and fathers' hearts all over the world as they fear their sons' lives sacrificed on battlefields. Let us pray and strive diligently to bring up our sons so that they, too, may be filled with wisdom, strong in spirit, with the grace of God upon them, as was our Lord Jesus. Then they may bless the world and peace may finally become a reality on the earth.

Cleft Palate Injury Is Common Speech Disorder

This is the fourth in a series of articles compiled by Mrs. Walter May, speech and hearing therapist of the Teays Valley School District. This is case history No. 3—Cleft Palate Speech.

About one baby out of every 750 live births has a cleft palate, cleft lip, or both. Jeff, a pre-schooler, is receiving speech therapy because he was one of these babies.

In the developing unborn child the lip and palate, or roof of the mouth, are separate until between the ninth and the twelfth week of life, when they fuse. When this fusion fails to take place, the child has a permanent cleft, or opening. The exact reasons for this failure are not yet known.

A lip may be cleft on one or both sides. The cleft may extend through the red border of the lip or up into the nose. However far it extends it is certain to be exceedingly unattractive, and it usually prevents the newborn baby from nursing normally. For this reason the cleft lip is usually closed within the first weeks by a skilled plastic surgeon or oral surgeon.

A cleft palate is not as conspicuous in the new baby, but it too may be dangerous to life and health. If the palate is completely or partly open on both sides or down the middle, or is not cleft but exceedingly short, the child will tend to lose fluids from his mouth through his nose. This happens because the special function of the palate, separation of the mouth and the floor of the nasal cavity, is prevented by the opening.

USUALLY, a cleft of the palate is not surgically repaired as early as the cleft lip. In many cases the surgeon may prefer to wait until the child is from four to six years old, in order that the principal growth of the face will be complete and will not be disturbed by the repair.

The majority of repairs are probably done now at about 18 to 20 months.

There is another alternative besides surgery which is being elected more often in recent years, although it is used much less frequently than surgery. If a lack of tissue to work with or other factors make it apparent that surgery will not get a good workable palate, a prosthodontist may make an obturator to cover the cleft. It may be something like the plate used with false teeth, or it may have a bulb in the back which actually functions as the palate would have. Occasionally both surgery and an obturator are used.

Jeff's lip was repaired when he was two-weeks old. When he was 18-months old, he was taken to a Cleft Palate Clinic at a nearby medical school. There he was examined by representatives of all the rehabilitative field that could help him: a plastic surgeon, an oral surgeon, a pediatrician, a pediatric dentist, a prosthodontist, an orthodontist, an otolaryngologist, a speech therapist, and a medical-social worker.

After examining Jeff, the team of specialists discussed his case and then recommended a program for him which included surgical repair of the palate in six months and speech therapy. Jeff was referred back to his own surgeon for the operation. An orthodontist would then begin work to prevent the misalignment of teeth common in cleft palate children.

Although surgery or prosthodontics, by repairing the opening in the roof of the mouth, make it possible for the child to speak normally, they usually must be followed by speech therapy if the child is to take advantage of this possibility.

THE open palate permitted air to escape through the nose and made it impossible to build up the pressure necessary to the production of some consonants. This escape of air through the nose also caused an unpleasant whistling sound and distorted the consonant sounds.

Although Jeff's repaired cleft palate seemed to have the ability to reach the back of his throat and close off the vocal area during speech, the boy was not getting all of this possible movement.

Jeff's therapy, which began when he was three and a half years old, has had four objectives: the strengthening of the muscles of his pharynx and of the repaired palate.

The attainment of a point of closure between palate and wall of the pharynx ear-training, so that the child would be aware of a difference between the defective and normal sounds and the development of normal speech.

Because Jeff began therapy early, he never developed many of the bad habits that cleft palate children who begin therapy later must unlearn.

Jeff's speech may always be identifiable by those familiar with

Cincinnati U Planning New Space Study

CINCINNATI (AP)—The University of Cincinnati has announced plans to set up a new institute on space problems. Mathematician-astronomer, Dr. Paul Herget, will head the project.

The university, in announcing the move Thursday, said it will be called the Institute on Space Science. Its main purpose will be to give advanced training and do research work.

Dr. Herget, director of the UC Observatory, has been in charge of the Navy Vanguard computing center at Washington.

The university said Dr. Herget has gained the interest of the National Research Foundation and Navy research officials in the project.

The Navy has already allocated $34,000 for work on satellite problems at the school, which next September will offer a three-year program leading to a doctorate in dynamical astronomy.

Dr. Herget said, "The need for the institute . . . arises from the lack of persons trained to deal with orbit problems and concrete solutions based on actual observation."

"The entire vanguard project does not have a single full time person on the staff who is competent in this subject. There was no one to be found who could be employed."

cleft palate speech but he will not be a curiosity to be sheltered at home, if he lived, which would have been the case a generation or two ago.

That he will lead a normal life is the result of the efforts of many workers from varied fields of medicine, dentistry, and education.

Pius Considered Audience As 'Window on the World'

By FRANK BRUTTO
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Medieval pomp and pageantry surrounded Pius XII in the most impressive ceremonies of the Roman Catholic Church.
Yet no other pope ever received so many people as simply as he did.
His audience, like those of his predecessor, Pius XI, were "a window on the world." No pontiff had ever looked so keenly from that window as did Pius XII.
Pius XII established many records. But the one for which millions will remember him in the immediate years to come is this:
He met more people than any other pontiff. The way was made easy for anyone who wished to see him.
He received more than 10 million persons — rulers and masses, rich and poor. There were private audiences with pageantry, as when he received Princess Elizabeth, who was to become England's queen. There were less formal, and informal special audiences, and great general audiences at which humble thousands plucked at his sleeve or tried to touch his robes with rosary beads and crosses.
He received thousands of GIs after Rome's liberation. He received U. S. senators and congressmen during those months and urged them to devote themselves to aiding people of less fortunate nations.
Twice weekly during the 1950

Holy Year, general audiences were held in St. Peter's Basilica.
Sometimes even the world's biggest church could not hold all the pilgrims.
His uncommon touch with the common man was evident.
"Excuse me if I made you wait a little," he said one day.
The people, hearing this use of the familiar first person singular instead of the formal "we," were astonished and silent. A moment later, Pius established easy communication and the play of answers and questions was under way.

During the Holy Year, Pius XII gave some 1,500 hours to more than 6,000 audiences of all kinds.
He spoke on subjects that ranged from philosophy to smoking.
"You are surprised that we should receive you," he told a tobacco workers' congress. "But why not? You represent a large section of workers. That is reason enough."

search for peace.

Pius Considered Audience As 'Window on the World'

By FRANK BRUTTO
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Medieval pomp and pageantry surrounded Pius XII in the most impressive ceremonies of the Roman Catholic Church.

Yet no other pope ever received so many people as simply as he did.

His audience, like those of his predecessor, Pius XI, were "a window on the world." No pontiff had ever looked so keenly from that window as did Pius XII.

Pius XII established many records. But the one for which millions will remember him in the immediate years to come is this: He met more people than any other pontiff. The way was made easy for anyone who wished to see him.

He received more than 10 million persons — rulers and masses, rich and poor. There were private audiences with pageantry, as when he received Princess Elizabeth, who was to become England's queen. There were less formal, and informal special audiences, and great general audiences at which humble thousands plucked at his sleeve or tried to touch his robes with rosary beads and crosses.

He received thousands of GIs after Rome's liberation. He received U. S. senators and congressmen during those months and urged them to devote themselves to aiding people of less fortunate nations.

Cincinnati Handed Sentence in Slaying

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Darrell F. Smith, 26, of Cincinnati must spend an indeterminate term in Ohio Penitentiary on his guilty plea to a manslaughter charge. Judge P. P. Boli set the term Thursday in Common Pleas Court. Smith was accused of taking part in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Mary Ellen Barger, 20. The shooting occurred three years ago near her home.

700 FEET TO GO—Only 700 feet from the top of unconquered, 3,604-foot El Capitan, which towers from the floor of Yosemite valley, California, Wayne Merry of Calistoga, Calif., advances lines on the sheer cliff. He and three other climbers hope to reach the top during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Holy Year, general audiences were held in St. Peter's Basilica. Sometimes even the world's biggest church could not hold all the pilgrims.

His uncommon touch with the common man was evident. "Excuse me if I made you wait a little," he said one day.

The people, hearing this use of the familiar first person singular instead of the formal "we," were astonished and silent. A moment later, Pius established easy communication and the play of answers and questions was under way.

During the Holy Year, Pius XII gave some 1,500 hours to more than 6,000 audiences of all kinds. He spoke on subjects that ranged from philosophy to smoking.

"You are surprised that we should receive you," he told a tobacco workers' congress. "But why not? You represent a large section of workers. That is reason enough."

Racism Said 'God' Worshipped by Millions

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Harold Cooke Phillips told the 133rd state convention of the Ohio Baptists Thursday night that racism still is the God worshiped by millions, although it is a complete denial of the Christian God. "As for the communists," he said, "how one wishes they were really atheists. Instead they are fanatical believers in a God made in their own distorted image." Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Housewives planning Sunday menus will find excellent buys in many food stores and supermarkets this week if they look for the weekend specials.

Heading the list of specially priced items are loin pork chops, sliced bacon, picnic hams, chuck and rib roast of beef, turkey and chicken.

Eggs are plentiful and moderately priced, particularly the medium and small sizes.

Many seafoods offer attractive bargains this week, notably swordfish steaks, flounder fillet and oysters.

The outstanding buy in produce is the apple. The harvesting season is in full swing in many parts of the country.

Pumpkins are another excellent buy, and they'll become even more plentiful as Halloween approaches. Bosc pears and tokay grapes are moderately priced.

Cranberries are still relatively high but they'll probably come down by Thanksgiving.

Best buys on the vegetable role and tomatoes from local farms and gardens. Cabbage, turnips and celery are also attractively priced.

Tomatoes, while still bargain specials in many stores, are beginning to carry higher price tags, as are peas, squash and Western lettuce.

Crucial Tilt Looms For CHS Tonight At McClain Field

A lot is at stake tonight when the Circleville Tigers travel to Greenfield for a crucial South Central Ohio League test with the McClain clan.

Coach Tom Bennett's Tigers will be looking for their third straight league win and Greenfield will be after its second in a row, giving an indication that plenty of fireworks are in store.

Both Circleville and Greenfield have posted wins over mutual opponent Wilmington. CHS did it here, 21-12, and McClain turned the trick, 12-0, on the losers' field.

Pre-game statistics indicate that the two teams are about evenly matched. Both squads are big and have speed in the backfield.

GREENFIELD possibly will have an edge in passing, a maneuver which the Tigers have not exploited this season. However, the locals are capable of coming up with some surprises in this department.

Circleville will bank heavily on the running of halfbacks Walt Arledge and Ray Phifer and fullback Larry Hannahs, with Arch Ward, Gary Vandemark and Dick Birch-

Illini Poised For Upset of Big Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State and Illinois tangle tomorrow in this year's Big Ten football opener for each team. The odds are with the Buckeyes, but Illinois isn't listening.

Ohio State flew to Champaign today confident of picking up its third straight victory of the season. Illinois, defeated twice by its own mistakes, smells an upset.

Said Illini fullback and captain Jack Delveaux:

"We're really going to be giving it everything we've got this week for Coach (Ray) Eliot. The criticism for the first two losses should be ours, and he'll deserve the credit when we beat Ohio State Saturday."

Eliot, famed as a master of the upset, brings his crew into tomorrow's battle as nine-point underdogs.

The Illini dropped its first two games to UCLA and Duke by a total of six points. Ohio State whipped Southern Methodist and Washington by eight points, largely by capitalizing on enemy errors.

Frank Kremblas, Buckeye quarterback who was injured in the Southern Methodist game, is expected to see action again tomorrow. Fullback Bob White and halfbacks Don Clark and Dick Le Beau, who all received minor injuries last week, will also be ready.

Illinois' last victory over the Bucks came in 1953 when J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates engineered a 41-20 verdict. Since then Ohio State has won 20-7, 27-12, 26-6 and 21-7.

GRAND FORKS, N. D. (AP)—The University of North Dakota has a brother act in football this season and will have another one in hockey. Blockbusters Top Grid Card

Some Big Changes In Rating Possible

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you feel any earth tremors this weekend, it probably won't be Mother Nature. They're just loaded the weekend football schedule with blockbusters.

It could add up to some violent changes in next week's Associated Press rankings.

The fireworks begin tonight in Miami's Orange Bowl, where 11th-ranked Louisiana State visits Miami's Hurricanes. The Bengals are undefeated in three games. Miami, rated the top Southern independent, has a 1-1 record.

Saturday, Army makes only its second trip ever to Notre Dame to finish off the second of the current two-game series. The Cadets ranked No. 3, bring along their "bazooka" offense and "lonesome end" to match fourth-ranked Notre Dame's varied offense and staunch defense.

Down in the Southwest, another traditional battle—Oklahoma at Texas—will sell out the Cotton Bowl. The Sooners, No. 2, are favored to beat the 16th ranked Longhorns, undefeated in three games.

Top-ranked Auburn tests its real defensive skill against explosive Kentucky in the Southeast Conference's top game.

Wisconsin (No. 6) plays host to Purdue (No. 13) in a Big Ten battle of unbeaten, and unscorred-upons. Another Big Ten clash sends Ohio State (No. 5) to Illinois in the day's television game.

Another SEC game pits seventh-ranked Mississippi against Tulane, while Atlantic Coast Conference favorite Clemson (No. 8) meets member Vanderbilt.

Ninth-rated Michigan State sends its multiple offense against a Pitt line that has stymied three opponents. The Panthers (No. 10) are a 10-point underdog.

Fifteenth-ranked Oregon, who lost a 6-0 squeaker to Oklahoma last week, meets Southern California in the West Coast's top game.

4 Unbeaten Ohio Grid Team Await Weekend Battles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland Benedictine vs Massillon, and Marion Harding vs Elyria are the only Ohio high school football games this weekend in which members of the top 10 clash in the battle of the unbeaten.

Defeat could send any of them into a lower slot in The Associated Press poll.

Benedictine's state champions, No. 6 in this week's rating, and Massillon, No. 2, both have three victories. The Tigers, however, tied Alliance, Marion Harding, No. 9, and Elyria, No. 5, each have four wins.

Other games in which top 10 teams will see action are Warren Harding, No. 1, vs East Liverpool; Cleveland Cathedral Latin, No. 3, vs Cleveland East; Alliance, No. 4, vs Youngstown Ursuline; Toledo Libbey, No. 7 vs Lima; Springfield, No. 8 vs Dayton Chaminade, and Troy, No. 10, vs Sidney.

UCLA Grid Coach Goes to Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Football Coach George Dickerson will be in the hospital tonight when his UCLA Bruins play Florida at the Coliseum. And he won't be back with them for the rest of the season.

The 45-year-old successor to the late Henry R. (Red) Sanders was hospitalized Thursday night after suffering a physical breakdown for the second time in six weeks. Doctors say he must have complete rest for at least three months.

Assistant Coach Bill Barnes will take over Dickerson's job for the rest of the season.

Second Guessers Take Look At Crucial Series Finale

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Could the Milwaukee Braves have been the world champions today instead of New York had they given Elston Howard an intentional pass?

It's possible. In fact, replaying the eighth inning of Thursday's World Series finale, won by the Yankees 6-2, brings up a lot of possibilities.

With two out, Yogi Berra doubled to right field. It would have been logical to walk Howard.

But Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney had Lew Burdette pitch and Howard broke up a 2-2 tie with a single to center. Some might say it didn't make any difference because Andy Carey singled and Moose Skowron homered.

However, Carey's single was off the glove of Eddie Mathews and wouldn't have scored anybody. And with the bases loaded, Burdette would have had his full windup and maybe worked more carefully to Skowron.

Then, too, there's always the possibility that Yankee Manager Casey Stengel would have taken Carey out for a pinch batter since Carey hadn't had a hit in the series.

Haney left himself wide open for the second guess to two other occasions. After the Yankees had failed to score in the first inning, the Braves opened up with Red Schoendienst singling and Billy

Boyd, Meechem Set for Rematch

CHICAGO (AP)—Lanky Bobby Boyd of Chicago tonight goes against Jimmy Beecham, who knocked him out of the middleweight rankings with an upset victory last August in Miami.

The 10 round middleweight scrap will be broadcast and televised by NBC from Chicago Stadium starting at 9 p.m. (EST). Scoring will be based on the five point maximum system.

Beecham, 24-year-old self-styled psychology student who migrated from Philadelphia to Miami, climbed to the No. 6 contender spot in the National Boxing Assn. ratings mainly by his victory over Boyd.

Boyd has scored 26 knockouts in winning 49 bouts. Beecham has only 7 kayoes in 24 victories.

Yankees, Stengel Reigning As Baseball Champs Again

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The New York Yankees were back on the baseball throne today, possessors of the most brilliant triumph in their long World Series history.

Casey Stengel reigned supreme as the greatest manager in the game today and as one of the shrewdest manipulators of manpower the sport has ever known.

The perennial American League champions climaxed a courageous uphill battle Thursday when they defeated former nemesis Lew Burdette and the Milwaukee Braves 6-2. It was their 18th world title in the last 38 years, their eighth in the last 12.

But neither Stengel nor the front office was fooled. They know this is not one of the better Yankee teams. It had too much of a battle on its hands before overcoming only a fair Milwaukee club in seven games. It had to surge back from a 3-1 deficit after looking like chumps in the first two games.

It had to receive super pitching to offset mediocre hitting. It had to get help from the opposition in the way of poor base running, faulty fielding, errant throwing and horrendous hitting in the clutch in order to win.

Stengel praised his athletes to the skies after their final victory, their third in succession and their fourth in the last five games. Only one other World Series club had ever made such a comeback.

But it is safe to assume Stengel has not forgotten the promise he made a week ago, after his players had lost 13-5 to the Braves.

"I'm going to make some changes on this club," he vowed then. "There are several men on this club who don't deserve to be on it. I promise you this. They won't be here next spring."

Even at the very height of his exhilaration, in the accomplishment of his seventh series success in nine attempts, the 67-year-old wizard of the dugout let fly a parting shot.

"Maybe now some of the other clubs in our league will want some of my players again," he said. "If we had continued to play like we did in the first four games, nobody would want our players. Now the telephone company will do some rushing business from the calls we'll get during the winter. And we'll be listening too."

It was pitching that won the pennant for New York. And it was pitching that won the series. The team batting in the series was only .211 despite the 10 home runs, half of which came in losing games. Only Hank Bauer and Gil McDougald hit over .300.

The Yankees managed to comb Burdette and relief pitcher Don McMahon for eight hits Thursday, half of them coming in the decisive eighth inning when they scored four runs to snap a 2-all deadlock. Elston Howard's tie-breaking single following Yogi Berra's two-out double, and Bill Skowron's three-run homer supplied the coup de grace. Up to then Burdette, pitching with only two days rest, had permitted but three hits.

The Yankees had managed to stay even with Milwaukee by the grace of a couple of wild throws by first baseman Frank Torre and failure of the Braves to come through in the clutch. They scored two unearned runs against Burdette without the aid of a hit in the second inning to take a 2-1 lead.

The Braves had two good shots at starter Don Larsen and winner Bob Turley and muffed both. Even the 46,367 Milwaukee diehards sensed they had had it despite a game-tying home run by Del Crandall in the sixth.

It was the same Crandall who twice came up with the bases full and twice failed to come through.

The Braves' catcher struck out in the first inning after his team had taken a 1-0 lead against Larsen and filled the bases on three walks. In the third, Turley replaced Larsen after singles by Bill Bruton and Henry Aaron. He retired Wes Covington on a run-scoring grounder, purposely walked Eddie Mathews to fill the bases, and disposed of Crandall on another grounder.

The Braves left eight runners stranded to increase their total to 57 for the seven games. The Yankees left only 40 on base. Milwaukee hit only three home runs with such sluggers as Mathews, Hank Aaron, Covington and Joe Adcock hitting nothing longer than a double.

Turley was superb Thursday, just as he was Monday when he shut out the Braves on five hits, and Wednesday when he came in to retire the last batter on three pitches and preserve Ryne Duren's 4-3 triumph. He gave up only two hits in the final 6-2-3 innings for his second victory in two days and was voted a new automobile as the series' outstanding player.

The series brought out several Braves' flaws. It showed them to be a slow-moving, mediocre fielding, ordinary hitting club. If it weren't for the magnificent work of their two great pitchers, Warren Spahn and Burdette, they probably would have not won more than one game. They scored 17 of their 25 runs in the first two games and were shut out twice in the last five.

Even Fred Haney, who did an expert job running his team, admitted his Braves did not deserve to win.

"Those fellows came from behind to beat us and deserved to win," he said. "Give credit where credit is due. They got the hits at the right time. We didn't."

"Spahn and Burdette pitched good enough to win but we didn't get them any runs. We lost because we scored only eight runs in the last five games. Had we hit when it counted, it would have been a different story."

Other than that, Haney refused to belittle his players.

THE MOOSE TRAMPLES THE BRAVES — Bill (Moose) Skowron of the Yankees crosses the plate with a big three-run homer in the big eighth inning to put the "big one" away for the Yanks, who climaxed one of the greatest of all World Series comebacks. Greeting Skowron are Andy Carey (6) and Tony Kubek (10) as Elston Howard shakes his hand.

Blockbusters Top Grid Card

Some Big Changes In Rating Possible

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you feel any earth tremors this weekend, it probably won't be Mother Nature. They've just loaded the weekend football schedule with blockbusters.

It could add up to some violent changes in next week's Associated Press rankings.

The fireworks begin tonight in Miami's Orange Bowl, where 11th-ranked Louisiana State visits Miami's Hurricanes. The Bengals are undefeated in three games. Miami, rated the top Southern independent, has a 1-1 record.

Saturday, Army makes only its second trip ever to Notre Dame to finish off the second of the current two-game series. The Cadets ranked No. 3, bring along their "bazooka" offense and "lonesome end" to match fourth-ranked Notre Dame's varied offense and staunch defense.

Down in the Southwest, another traditional battle — Oklahoma at Texas — will sell out the Cotton Bowl. The Sooners, No. 2, are favored to beat the 16th ranked Longhorns, undefeated in three games.

Top-ranked Auburn tests its real defensive skill against explosive Kentucky in the Southeast Conference's top game.

Wisconsin (No. 6) plays host to Purdue (No. 13) in a Big Ten battle of unbeaten, and unscored-upon. Another Big Ten clash sends Ohio State (No. 5) to Illinois in the day's television game.

Another SEC game pits seventh-ranked Mississippi against Tulane, while Atlantic Coast Conference favorite Clemson (No. 8) meets member Vanderbilt.

Ninth-rated Michigan State sends its multiple offense against a Pitt line that has stymied three opponents. The Panthers (No. 10) are a 10-point underdog.

Fifteenth-ranked Oregon, who lost a 6-0 squeaker to Oklahoma last week, meets Southern California in the West Coast's top game.

4 Unbeaten Ohio Grid Team Await Weekend Battles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland Benedictine vs Massillon, and Marion Harding vs Elyria are the only Ohio high school football games this weekend in which members of the top 10 clash in the battle of the unbeaten.

Defeat could send any of them into a lower slot in The Associated Press poll.

Benedictine's state champions, No. 6 in this week's rating, and Massillon, No. 2, both have three victories. The Tigers, however, tied Alliance, Marion Harding, No. 9, and Elyria, No. 5, each have four wins.

Other games in which top 10 teams will see action are Warren Harding, No. 1, vs East Liverpool; Cleveland Cathedral Latin, No. 3, vs Cleveland East; Alliance, No. 4, vs Youngstown Ursuline; Toledo Libbey, No. 7 vs Lima; Springfield, No. 8 vs Dayton Chaminade, and Troy, No. 10, vs Sidney.

UCLA Grid Coach Goes to Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Football Coach George Dickerson will be in the hospital tonight when his UCLA Bruins play Florida at the Coliseum. And he won't be back with them for the rest of the season.

The 45-year-old successor to the late Henry R. (Red) Sanders was hospitalized Thursday night after suffering a physical breakdown for the second time in six weeks. Doctors say he must have complete rest for at least three months.

Assistant Coach Bill Barnes will take over Dickerson's job for the rest of the season.

Shows Increase

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—Led by Cedar Rapids' championship Braves the Three I league showed a 5.8 per cent boost in attendance during the 1958 baseball season. The paid attendance for the season was 356,364.

Yankees, Stengel Reigning As Baseball Champs Again

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The New York Yankees were back on the baseball throne today, possessors of the most brilliant triumph in their long World Series history.

Casey Stengel reigned supreme as the greatest manager in the game today and as one of the shrewdest manipulators of manpower the sport has ever known.

The perennial American League champions climaxed a courageous uphill battle Thursday when they defeated former nemesis Lew Burdette and the Milwaukee Braves 6-2. It was their 18th world title in the last 38 years, their eighth in the last 12.

But neither Stengel nor the front office was fooled. They know this is not one of the better Yankee teams. It had too much of a battle on its hands before overcoming only a fair Milwaukee club in seven games. It had to surge back from a 3-1 deficit after looking like chumps in the first two games.

It had to receive super pitching to offset mediocre hitting. It had to get help from the opposition in the way of poor base running, faulty fielding, errant throwing and horrendous hitting in the clutch in order to win.

Stengel praised his athletes to the skies after their final victory, their third in succession and their fourth in the last five games. Only one other World Series club had ever made such a comeback.

But it is safe to assume Stengel has not forgotten the promise he made a week ago, after his players had lost 13-5 to the Braves.

"I'm going to make some changes on this club," he vowed then. "There are several men on this club who don't deserve to be on it. I promise you this. They won't be here next spring."

Even at the very height of his exhilaration, in the accomplishment of his seventh series success in nine attempts, the 67-year-old wizard of the dugout let fly a parting shot.

"Maybe now some of the other clubs in our league will want some of my players again," he said. "If we had continued to play like we did in the first four games, nobody would want our players. Now the telephone company will do some rushing business from the calls we'll get during the winter. And we'll be listening too."

It was pitching that won the pennant for New York. And it was pitching that won the series. The team batting in the series was only .211 despite the 10 home runs, half of which came in losing games. Only Hank Bauer and Gil McDougald hit over .300.

The Yankees managed to comb Burdette and relief pitcher Don McMahon for eight hits Thursday, half of them coming in the decisive eighth inning when they scored four runs to snap a 2-all deadlock. Elston Howard's tie-breaking single following Yogi Berra's two-out double, and Bill Skowron's three-run homer supplied the coup de grace. Up to then Burdette, pitching with only two days rest, had permitted but three hits.

The Yankees had managed to stay even with Milwaukee by the grace of a couple of wild throws by first baseman Frank Torre and failure of the Braves to come through in the clutch. They scored two unearned runs against Burdette without the aid of a hit in the second inning to take a 2-1 lead.

The Braves had two good shots at starter Don Larsen and winner Bob Turley and muffed both. Even the 46.367 Milwaukee diehards sensed they had had it despite a game-tying home run by Del Crandall in the sixth.

It was the same Crandall who twice came up with the bases full and twice failed to come through.

The Braves' catcher struck out in the first inning after his team had taken a 1-0 lead against Larsen and filled the bases on three walks. In the third, Turley replaced Larsen after singles by Bill Bruton and Henry Aaron. He retired Wes Covington on a run-scoring grounder, purposely walked Eddie Mathews to fill the bases, and disposed of Crandall on another grounder.

The Braves left eight runners stranded to increase their total to 57 for the seven games. The Yankees left only 40 on base. Milwaukee hit only three home runs with such sluggers as Mathews, Hank Aaron, Covington and Joe Adcock hitting nothing longer than a double.

Turley was superb Thursday, just as he was Monday when he shut out the Braves on five hits, and Wednesday when he came in to retire the last batter on three pitches and preserve Ryne Duren's 4-3 triumph. He gave up only two hits in the final 6 2/3 innings for his second victory in two days and was voted a new automobile as the series' outstanding player.

The series brought out several Braves' flaws. It showed them to be a slow-moving, mediocre fielding, ordinary hitting club. If it weren't for the magnificent work of their two great pitchers, Warren Spahn and Burdette, they probably would have not won more than one game. They scored 17 of their 25 runs in the first two games and were shut out twice in the last five.

Even Fred Haney, who did an expert job running his team, admitted his Braves did not deserve to win.

"Those fellows came from behind to beat us and deserved to win," he said. "Give credit where credit is due. They got the hits at the right time. We didn't."

"Spahn and Burdette pitched good enough to win but we didn't get them any runs. We lost because we scored only eight runs in the last five games. Had we hit when it counted, it would have been a different story."

Other than that, Haney refused to belittle his players.

Second Guessers Take Look At Crucial Series Finale

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Could the Milwaukee Braves have been the world champions today instead of New York had they given Elston Howard an intentional pass?

It's possible. In fact, replaying the eighth inning of Thursday's World Series finale, won by the Yankees 6-2, brings up a lot of possibilities.

With two out, Yogi Berra doubled to right field. It would have been logical to walk Howard.

But Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney had Lew Burdette pitch and Howard broke up a 2-2 tie with a single to center. Some might say it didn't make any difference because Andy Carey singled and Moose Skowron homered.

However, Carey's single was off the glove of Eddie Mathews and wouldn't have scored anybody. And with the bases loaded, Burdette would have had his full windup and maybe worked more carefully to Skowron.

Then, too, there's always the possibility that Yankee Manager Casey Stengel would have taken Carey out for a pinch batter since Carey hadn't had a hit in the series.

Haney left himself wide open for the second guess on two other occasions. After the Yankees had failed to score in the first inning, the Braves opened up with Red Schoendienst singling and Billy Boyd drawing a walk.

It appeared the Braves were headed for a big inning. But Haney had Frank Torre sacrifice and when the inning was over Milwaukee had only one run instead of maybe a cluster.

In the third, with the Braves trailing 2-1, Bruton led off with a single. This time, instead of sacrificing the tying run to second, Haney had Torre swing away. He popped out. Hank Aaron followed with a single and the score would have been tied if the Braves had sacrificed. Instead, they didn't score and left three men on base.

But the winners always look good and the losers bad. Haney said if he had to play the series over again "I wouldn't do a damn thing differently."

SIME TURNS GRIDDER — Dave Sime, world's fastest trackman at 100 yards, has joined the Duke university football squad as an end, at the request of Coach Bill Murray, who wishes to capitalize on Sime's terrific speed. Sime was an all-state halfback in high school days.

Boyd, Meechem Set for Rematch

CHICAGO (AP) — Lanky Bobby Boyd of Chicago tonight goes against Jimmy Beecham, who knocked him out of the middleweight rankings with an upset victory last August in Miami.

The 10 round middleweight scrap will be broadcast and televised by NBC from Chicago Stadium starting at 9 p.m. (EST). Scoring will be based on the five point maximum system.

Beecham, 24-year-old self-styled psychology student who migrated from Philadelphia to Miami, climbed to the No. 6 contender spot in the National Boxing Assn. ratings mainly by his victory over Boyd.

Boyd has scored 26 knockouts in winning 49 bouts. Beecham has only 7 kayoes in 24 victories.

Louisiana State football coach Paul Dietzel was an assistant at Kentucky under Paul Bryant, now the coach at Alabama.

O'Neill 'Fails' To Keep 1956 Pledge, Claim

CLEVELAND (AP)—Michael V. DiSalle accused Gov. C. William O'Neill today of making meaningless promises about juvenile delinquency after failing to keep the ones he made in the 1956 campaign.

The Democratic nominee for governor noted that the Ohio Welfare Conference recently spoke out on Ohio's overcrowded juvenile institutions and the need for better trained personnel to man them.

"The answer of the governor was a pledge that he would appoint a committee to study the problems of delinquency and youth," DiSalle said.

DiSalle said that during the 1956 campaign O'Neill vowed that his program would include legislation, citizen group cooperation, parent education, along with every possible means to alert Ohio citizens to the gravity of the problem.

"None of these promises has materialized," DiSalle declared.

"If they had, there would be no need to repeat them now."

"If there is anything we don't need," he continued, "it's another study. The Ohio Legislative Service Commission issued a full research report just last year. The Ohio Committee on Delinquency and Crime made another exhaustive study. And a committee of the U. S. Senate this year and last produced other reports."

DiSalle said Ohio's program should include more emphasis on rehabilitation, segregation of the more severe cases from those less severe, better utilization of foster homes, expansion of voluntary diagnostic clinics, psychological training of teachers to aid in early detection of behavior problems, supervised employment for children not benefiting from further education and expanded use of honor camps to substitute wholesome work on state projects for mere detention.

GOOD SERVANTS, notes Patrick Mahony, are virtually nonexistent in Ireland today. They all come to America, where wages are much higher. Thus, a rich Irish squire of County Clare was particularly disconsolate when his cook died. He ordered a fine headstone for her, with these words chiselled thereon:

"Peace Be To Her Hashes" Mahony tells of another stone in the same graveyard that decorates the resting place of a one-time dentist:

"Stranger, heed this spot with due gravity For here Doctor Mac Laverly Filled his last cavity."

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Athletic Director John Brickels announced today that Miami University has signed to play a football game with Army at West Point on Oct. 29, 1960. It will be the first meeting between the two schools. Army Coach Earl (Red) Blaik is a Miami graduate.

Mudcat Fans Many

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jim (Mudcat) Grant, who made his debut with the Cleveland Indians last season and won 10 of 21 decisions, produced an impressive strikeout total on his way to the American League. In four seasons with Fargo, Keokuk, Reading and San Diego, Grant fanned 636 batters in 828 innings. With the Indians he fanned 110 in 204 innings.

'Over-Confidence' To Defeat Browns?

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of the Chicago Cardinals — who had experience with overconfidence in collegiate football—is hoping to catch the Cleveland Browns in that mood.

"Overconfidence," Ivy said, "was one of our big problems at Oklahoma." He was a player and later assistant coach at the University of Oklahoma.

"The kids read so much about how good they were, they began to believe it," Ivy commented.

He hopes the Browns are impressed with the Browns' reputation.

"As a matter of fact, that's probably our best chance against the Browns—if they're too confident for this one," he added.

MURDER TROUBLE—Mrs. Connie Nicolson, 42, her ailing arm in a sling, sits in court in Indianapolis, Ind., at the hearing at which her attorney filed a motion to quash an indictment charging her with premeditated murder in the gun death of Forrest Teel, 54. Killing of the Eli Lilly drug manufacturing executive occurred July 1.

Little Co-Captains

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Guard Jimmy Blount and Halfback Claude Mason are the smallest pair of co-captains to wear Tulane football uniforms in many seasons.

Blount, from Groves, Tex., is 5-foot-9 and 188 pounds, Mason, from Lake Charles, La., is 5-foot-10 and 165 pounds. Blount played 480 minutes last season while Mason saw 315 minutes of action for the Green Wave.

GOOD SERVANTS, notes Patrick Mahony, are virtually nonexistent in Ireland today. They all come to America, where wages are much higher. Thus, a rich Irish squire of County Clare was particularly disconsolate when his cook died. He ordered a fine headstone for her, with these words chiseled thereon:

"Peace Be To Her Hashes"

Mahony tells of another stone in the same graveyard that decorates the resting place of a one-time dentist:

"Stranger, heed this spot with due gravity
For here Doctor Mac Lavery
Filled his last cavity."

Over-Confidence' To Defeat Browns?

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of the Chicago Cardinals — who had experience with overconfidence in collegiate football—is hoping to catch the Cleveland Browns in that mood.

"Overconfidence," Ivy said, "was one of our big problems at Oklahoma." He was a player and later assistant coach at the University of Oklahoma.

"The kids read so much about how good they were, they began to believe it," Ivy commented.

He hopes the Browns are impressed with the Browns' reputation.

"As a matter of fact, that's probably our best chance against the Browns—if they're too confident for this one," he added.

Miami Gridders Book Army Game for 1960

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Athletic Director John Brickels announced today that Miami University has signed to play a football game with Army at West Point on Oct. 29, 1960. It will be the first meeting between the two schools. Army Coach Earl (Red) Blaik is a Miami graduate.

Mudcat Fans Many

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jim (Mudcat) Grant, who made his debut with the Cleveland Indians last season and won 10 of 21 decisions, produced an impressive strikeout total on his way to the American League. In four seasons with Fargo, Keokuk, Reading and San Diego, Grant fanned 636 batters in 828 innings. With the Indians he fanned 110 in 204 innings.

U.S. Idle Total Drops Sharply

September Leaves 4,111,000 Jobless.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment dropped by 588,000 in September, marking what the government called a significant improvement in the job situation.

The joint monthly report of the Commerce and Labor Departments said unemployment declined from 4,699,000 in August to 4,111,000 in September.

This was about twice the usual seasonal decline between August and September.

Employment also dropped, falling from 65,367,000 to 64,629,000 or a decline of 738,000. This is usual as students go back to school at this time of year.

About one million students quit summer jobs to return to classes this year.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of Labor Mitchell said:

"A sharp pickup among adult men in nonfarm activities was chiefly responsible for reducing the unemployed total to its lowest level for the year thus far. Hiring was especially brisk in automobile plants and steel mills, and among producers of home appliances. In addition, there was the usual expansion in school staffs."

An early autumn lull in farm activity, as well as the customary September withdrawal of students from the labor market, contributed toward the decline in employment.

The seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment fell to 7.2 per cent in September from 7.6 per cent in August.

A year ago in September, when unemployment was 2,552,000 or 1,559,000 lower than September this year, the unemployed ratio was 4.5 per cent.

Stock Mart Heads Toward Record High

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market nudged toward another record high early this afternoon. Trading was active.

Industrials posted gains of fractions to a point or more. Rails and utilities were a mingling of small gains and losses. Steels, nonferrous metals and selected issues were higher.

Continued strength in copper prices abroad accompanied an advance by coppers. Aluminums were helped by a statement of a General Motors engineer to the effect that aluminum auto engines are not competitive cost-wise.

International Nickel, a big copper producer, added more than 2 points. Alcoa gained about 2 also. Magma-Copper advanced beyond a point. Aluminum was up about a point.

Anaconda, American Smelting and Kennecott gained sizable fractions.

Gains of about a point were scored by U.S. Steel, Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet. Bethlehem and Jones & Laughlin rose fractionally.

General Precision spurred more than 2. Up a point or so were Schering and Lorillard.

Balky Bossy Causes Hitch In Re-Enactment of '87 Fire

CHICAGO (AP)—The great Chicago fire of 1871 was re-enacted Thursday at the site where the conflagration started, supposedly after Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern.

The small fire in the reproduction of the O'Leary barn didn't cause any trouble for the firemen, but the cow, a brown Swiss, was a balky bossy and wound up playing the leading role.

To start off, Fireman John Baldwin, wearing a polka dot gown and bonnet in his role as Mrs. O'Leary, led the cow into the barn and tied her in a stall. She balked. Baldwin led her outside and then tried to lead her back in, but she wouldn't go.

Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn took the lead, and the cow re-clumping into another stall. Baldwin then sat on a milking stool and got a fair flow of milk in a bucket. Then the cow was again led outside as it was time to burn the barn.

Stockyards workers sought to load her on a truck. She balked again, broke loose, and ran a block with six men in pursuit. She was recaptured but refused to get into the truck. Firemen finally got her aboard.

Then the barn was set and the program went off as planned.

This was the last fire on the historic West Side site, the fire department said. Construction will start soon on a 5 1/2-million-dollar building, the department's Fire Academy. The re-enactment was in connection with observance of Fire Prevention Week.

In the fire of 1871, which started Oct. 8, more than 300 persons died, some 90,000 were made homeless, and property damage was estimated at more than 200 million dollars.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Meet Maverick, a doughty Doberman pinscher whose defiance of authority, contempt for conformity and rejection of security have made him a hero in the world of man.

Maverick raised himself from a pup and for four years stayed several jumps ahead of the dogcatchers. They couldn't outsmart him so they finally overpowered him last week after slowing him up with a tranquilizing charge fired from a gun.

The city's dogcatchers, who hung the name Maverick on him, told of the four years they spent stray.

They chased him by car and on foot but never came close.

They baited traps with meat in which capsules of tranquilizing drugs were concealed. Maverick ate the meat and spit out the drugs.

They finally realized the kind of adversary they were up against when they put a female boxer in a cage with a one-way door. Maverick ripped off the back of the cage and took the lady dog into the hills with him.

At the same time he was outwitting the dogcatchers, Maverick was rebuffing all efforts by friendly residents to domesticate him. He accepted their food, raided their garbage pails, but took to his heels when they spoke of settling down.

The captured Maverick was under death sentence at the city pound unless someone adopted him. Then newspaper readers learned of his exploits and flooded the city with 1,000 requests for the animal.

So they auctioned him off Thursday. Mrs. Harry Crown of nearby Van Nuys plunked down $130 for the dog.

"I feel that a dog who supported himself for four years deserves a good home," said Mrs. Crown as she led Maverick to her sleek red convertible.

Then Maverick rode in triumph to Mrs. Crown's 2 1/2-acre estate.
